Global Leaders Speak For Peace

Tense World Enters 1967 On Note Of Uncertainty

By The Associated Press

A tense world stepped with uncertainty into 1967 Sunday, its mood tempered by pleas for peace and the harsh realism of continuing conflict and despair in an age of plenty.

Global leaders spoke of peace. And the little man the world over, his brief New Year's Eve respite fading with the time, had his private thoughts of the future and what it might hold for him and those he loved.

Pope Paul VI, appearing at his window overlooking St. Peter's Square, wished the world a happy New Year, then urged prayers for justice and peace.

The prime minister of Malaysia, Tunku Abdul Rahman, in his New Year message, said, "Let us pray that the year 1967 will bring peace to war torn Vietnam."

There was hope for some in President Johnson's announcement that the United States was very interested in a British proposal for a three-power conference of the United States, North and South Vietnam.

More than 100 truce violations were reported during a 48-hour New Year's cease-fire in Vietnam, and U.S. Marines launched an attack in the middle of the truce to keep a 1,000 man enemy force from infiltrating American positions near Hue.

On a more hopeful note, a Viet Cong radio broadcast, monitored in Saigon, proposed a week-long truce in February for the Vietnamese lunar new year, Tet. The Allies already had called a four-day cease fire for the same period.

At home, violence, so often present in 1966, appeared again with the dawn of 1967. A 14-year-old boy in Orange, Tex., was charged with killing his father, his grandmother and his father's fiancee.

The Berlin Wall stayed closed this year so it was, in a sense, a stay-at-home New Year's for many Berliners. New Year's Eve, however, was celebrated in both East and West Berlin with firecrackers of all sorts, even though the colorful rockets are illegal in West Berlin.

At London's Trafalgar Square, about 5,000 persons saw the New Year in with traditional revelry. Some youths, following custom, jumped into the ice-cold fountains.

New Year's day in Taipei also was commemorated at the 55th anniversary of the founding of the Republic of China. Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek took the occasion to predict the downfall of Red Chinese boss Mao Tse-tung.

In the United States, 1967 opened with cloudy, damp weather stretching from the Great Plains to the East Coast. There were snow flurries and light rain in many parts of the nation.

Spirits were subdued after New Year's Eve celebrations such as the one in Times Square, where an estimated half a million persons turned out for what police called one of the biggest and happiest crowds in history.

Many spent the holiday quietly — watching either the National or American Football league championship game — or both — on television.

Football — college style — also dominated the plans of many for Monday, the legal holiday. Tournaments such as the Rose Bowl, the Sugar Bowl and the Orange Bowl were sure to attract many.

New Year Truce Ends

Cease-Fire Punctuated By Clashes

Gunfire Incidents Far Above The 122 During Yule Period

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) —A bullet-punctuated New Year truce in the Vietnam war ended today and U. S. and Allied men and planes were ordered back on the offensive.

The 48-hour truce was marked by a series of clashes including a U.S. Marine attack launched to keep a 1,000-man enemy force from infiltrating Leatherneck positions.

U.S. headquarters reported one enemy trawler sunk and another afire and shaken by explosions after an encounter with U.S. warships off the southern tip of South Vietnam late Sunday night and early today.

The two-day cease-fire came to a close at 7 a.m. and Allied military spokesmen reported nearly 150 clashes of various kinds since 7 a.m. Saturday. Neither the U.S. or South Vietnamese commands listed any of the incidents as violations of the truce.

The gunfire incidents were well above the 122 reported during the 48-hour Christmas truce.

The Marine attack was mounted Sunday as an enemy force moved in on U.S. positions near the northern city of Hue, the U.S. Command reported.

Spokesmen said the attack, which included artillery fire and air strikes, was made with the authority of headquarters of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam. Enemy casualties, if any, were unknown. The enemy force was believed to be North Vietnamese.

"The newly positioned enemy force posed a direct threat to Marine positions," a U.S. spokesman said.

As the truce ended, there was a claim from the Viet Cong that they "put out of action or disintegrated 1,050,000 enemy troops," including 123,500 Americans during the past six years. The claim was broadcast by Peking's New China News Agency, quoting Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency. The broadcast was monitored in Tokyo.

There were these other developments on New Year's Day:

—The Viet Cong, looking forward to another cease-fire, proposed a week-long truce for Tet, the lunar new year in February. While the Allies suggested a cease-fire Feb. 8-12, a Viet Cong broadcst proposed that it run until Feb. 15.

—Nearly 7,000 more U.S. combat troops began disembarking at Vung Tau. They are members of a brigade and artillery batteries of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division which began arriving here Dec. 19. The new arrivals brought to 382,000 the number of U.S. military personnel in Vietnam.

VIETNAMESE CULTURAL ACTION team members, assisted by two U.S. Marines, reconstruct a small foot bridge which was destroyed by flood waters in the village of Thai Binh, South Vietnam, south of Saigon. Troops and team members worked together in bringing in lumber, nails and tools for new bridge supports and platforms. (UPI Telephoto)

Will Go To Hawaii

New Post Taken By Rev. Miller

The Rev. M. Rudolph Miller, minister of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church the last 28 years, resigned his pastorate during the Sunday morning service to accept a call at a leper colony in Hawaii.

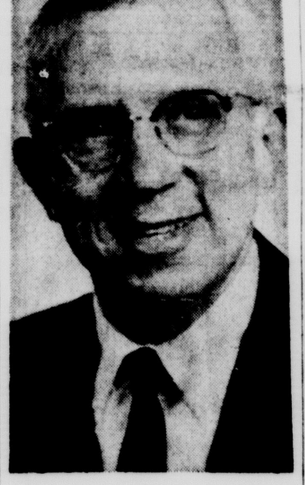

He and his wife will leave early in February for the island of Molokai, where he will administer to some 40 lepers attending the Congregational Church.

There are approximately 200 patients in the leprosarium, which is operated by the Congregational Church. Rev. Miller plans to remain at the post for two years.

AT THE conclusion of his sermon, which was entitled "Star Of Wonder," Rev. Miller told his congregation he felt "he had not given up much for his faith and the star beckoned him to give assistance in a place where the ministry is greatly needed."

The Millers will be permitted to leave the island, which is one of five, every three months.

REV. MILLER
Resigns As Pastor Here.

Masked Man Ties Woman, Grabs $300

Mrs. W. K. Hoge Robbed In Bedroom At Glenmoor Home

A masked gunman with thick dark brown hair bound and robbed Mrs. W. K. Hoge of Glenmoor of $300 about 11:50 p. m. Saturday in her bedroom.

She told Sheriff Russell J. Van Fossan the robber appeared suddenly at the foot of her bed and held a small gun like a rifle.

The sheriff said Mrs. Hoge told him the man bound her with the cord of an electric alarm clock, then demanded to know where she kept her money.

She told him it was in a purse on a chair in the kitchen. Returning with the purse, the robber emptied the contents on the other twin bed and left with the money. The bills were $20's, $10's and $5's.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoge operate Hoge's Restaurant on Route 30, north of here. Their home is more than a mile away. Mrs. Hoge told the sheriff she came home from the restaurant about 9 and watched television for an hour or so before retiring.

She said she left the lights and television on and the front door unlocked for her husband. She heard a noise shortly after retiring, but thought it was from television.

The bedroom was unlighted, but there apparently was enough light from the other room for the victim to study the robber.

A bulletin broadcast by the sheriff described the robber as a white male in his late teens or early 20's, slender build, about 6 feet, 6 inches tall, with thick dark brown hair and wearing bluejeans.

Mrs. Hoge said she did not hear a car after the robber left. She freed herself and drove to the restaurant. Her husband

Agreement Reached At Chester Firm

Union Sets Chapel Meeting Tonight To Consider Matter

A tentative settlement in contract negotiations between the National Church Supply Co. in Chester and East Liverpool Printing Specialties Local Union 638 was reached during discussions over the weekend at the company offices, Gerald Cartwright, union president, reported Sunday night.

The matter will be placed before the union membership in a chapel meeting tonight at 7 at the VFW building on Carolina Ave., Chester, he announced, and asked members of Local 638 working at National Church Supply are requested to attend, he said.

The proposed three - year contract will replace the previous three - year agreement that expired Saturday at midnight.

Cartwright said the union's negotiating committee will recommend acceptance of the proposal.

Affected are some 135 employes at the company's Plant 2 site adjacent to Route 30 in Hancock County.

Charles D. Taylor is company president.

1966 'Good' Year

Outlook Bright For Area In '67

Ringing down the curtain Saturday night on a year that was generally prosperous for residents, industry and retail business, the East Liverpool district looked forward today to 1967 for continued high employment and production levels.

The retail and service trades chalked up 1966 as a good year, thanks mainly to growing payrolls in the district's two basic industries — ceramics and steel. With industry looking forward to the new year as another 12 months of high employment and production, retailers can do the same.

BOTH THE Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. of America and the Weirton Steel Co. characterized 1966 as a "good" year and both looked forward to 1967 with optimism. Crucible revealed in a year - end summary that it poured out $52.4 million in wages and salaries in the area during 1966, with $8.6 million more in fringe benefits.

The East Liverpool area's ceramic plants also experienced a comparatively good year in 1966, as evidenced by a steady employment rate and an increase in payrolls.

Guy F. McCracken, works manager at Crucible, commented at year's end that management "looks forward to 1967 being another good year for us all."

Charles G. Tournay, president of Weirton Steel, said most factors "indicate that 1967 should be another good year for Weirton Steel and its employes."

THE FORECASTS of the district industrialists match those of their counterparts over most of the nation. Some hedged on their predictions because of the administration's "tight money" policy, fears of a tax hike and uncertainty over the war in Vietnam, but most looked forward to the new year with at least a moderate degree of optimism.

U.S. Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor has predicted a seventh straight year of economic expansion, asserting that inflation and "tight money" will not be major factors.

The only pall was cast by observers who declared that European industrial indices have leveled off in the last few months and the decline will have an effect eventually in the United States.

Many East Liverpool area industrial and business indices attained levels in the first 11 months of 1966 that were ahead of the points at which they stood at the same time in 1965, according to a Chamber of Commerce survey.

Payrolls at 11 industrial plants stood at $15,456,444 for the first 11 months of 1966, a gain of 1.6 per cent from the $15,205,701 shown at the same time in 1965. They reached $1,354,293 in November, virtually unchanged from the $1,364,980 in October.

Employment at the same 11 plants averaged 3,722 monthly in the first 11 months of 1966, virtually unchanged from the 3,740 average shown at the same time in the preceding year. November's employment was 3,587, compared with 3,604 in October.

Clues Sought In London's Art Burglary

Scotland Yard's Detectives Admit They Are Groping

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard detectives admitted Sunday night they are groping — and hoping — for genuine clues to crack the biggest art burglary in history, with loot that might top the $7 million stolen in the great train robbery of 1963.

Scotland Yard's press spokesman said an anonymous telephone call Saturday night — demanding $280,000 ransom for the eight classic paintings on threat of burning them sounded like a New Year's Eve reveler's hoax.

"Do we place any credence in it?' he said. "That can only be a matter of conjecture. The caller gave no directions for depositing the ransom, gave no promise of where and when to return the paintings. So we are still in the dark and are working on the groundwork of investigation — fingerprints on the looted gallery frames and the walls. We have to start from there and sift what clues we get."

Scotland Yard said there had been no follow-up to this ransom demand. So police went into the kind of slogging, routine work that finally jailed a number of great train robbers — although most of that loot remains unrecovered.

Could Take Until Summer To Solve

Ohio Assembly Tackles Old And New Problems

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's first legislature elected in single-member districts convenes Monday to tackle an imposing array of old and new lawmaking problems that could take until summer to solve.

Leaders of both parties agree that many pressing issues are complex but they predict the streamlined 107th General Assembly will be one of the most productive.

Reapportionment under a "one man, one vote" court edict cut House membership from 137 two years ago to 99 but increased the number of senators by one to 33. The House total is the smallest since the 85 members in 1847.

Republicans will dominate the new session by a margin of 23-10 over Democrats in the Senate and 62-37 in the House, virtually assuring favorable treatment for GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes' second term programs.

Republicans outnumbered House Democrats in the last session, 75-62, but had an even 16-16 split in the Senate.

Leaders previously picked by party caucuses will be elected officially and installed. Legislators will be sworn after the Senate opens for business at 11:30 p.m. on the New Year holiday and the House follows suit at 2 p. m. Meeting times are set by law.

Lt. Gov. John W. Brown of Medina, reelected last month to a second four-year term after previously serving a brace of two-year terms, again will preside over Senate sessions by virtue of his office.

Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft of the Ohio Supreme Court will swear in senators, 17 of them elected to regular four-year terms to stagger future four-year terms.

Rep. Robert F. Reckman, R-Hamilton, House Republican floor leader last session, will call representatives to order as acting speaker and later turn the gavel over to Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-Wood, who will serve as speaker.

Supreme Court Judge C. William O'Neill, former governor, attorney general and House speaker, will swear in House members for two-year terms. Regular pay of senators and representatives is $8,000 a year.

Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, will serve another term as majority floor leader of the upper house and Sen. Frank W. King, D-Lucas, Ohio AFL-CIO president, again as minority leader.

During Atlantic City And Chicago Shows

Potteries Will Display Their Lines

The Homer Laughlin China Co. will introduce its new offerings at both shows — the ninth annual Atlantic City China & Glass Show opening next Sunday at Convention Hall in the resort city and the National Housewares Manufactures Association Show Jan. 16-20 at the McCormick Pl. Exhibition Hall in Chicago.

The Harker China Co. will bring out a new dinnerware line, but does not expect to present it at either show. Harker's said it will contact its established accounts direct, but does not expect to seek new business from gift shops, jewelry stores and department store accounts.

The traditional Pittsburgh show, in which all the firms participated, was held last in 1958. It was sponsored by the Associated Glass & Pottery Manufacturers, an organization of dinnerware and glass executives.

Since that time, the area firms have shifted between the sites in Atlantic City and Chicago, except for 1963, when they were all together again under one roof for the National China & Glass Show. It was sponsored at Chicago by the same group which had arranged the traditional Pittsburgh Show.

But the new Chicago exhibit was held only one year. In early 1964 and 1965, the four firms were split between the Chicago and Atlantic City exhibits. The same situation prevailed at the show in early 1966.

The Atlantic City Show is sponsored by the China, Glass & Pottery Association of America, Inc. It is arranged by George Little Management, Inc., of New York City. It will continue through Thursday, Jan. 12.

AT BOTH Atlantic City and Chicago, Homer Laughlin will present a unique colonial "White Ironstone" shape.

The caller gave no directions for depositing the ransom, gave no promise of where and when to return the paintings. So we are still in the dark and are working on the groundwork of investigation — fingerprints on the looted gallery frames and the walls. We have to start from there and sift what clues we get."

Scotland Yard said there had been no follow-up to this ransom demand. So police went into the kind of slogging, routine work that finally jailed a number of great train robbers — although most of that loot remains unrecovered.

Aliquippa Driver Hurt In Route 30 Mishap

A 53-year-old Aliquippa driver was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with injuries suffered when his car struck guardrails on Route 30 near the Pennsylvania — West Virginia line Sunday night.

Emmett A. Hall of Aliquippa suffered a possible fracture of the right hip and facial lacerations in the mishap at Shane's Bend, a sharp curve of Route 30 in Beaver County west of Laughlin's Corners.

Could Take Until Summer To Solve

Ohio Assembly Tackles Old And New Problems

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's first legislature elected in single-member districts convenes Monday to tackle an imposing array of old and new lawmaking problems that could take until summer to solve.

Leaders of both parties agree that many pressing issues are complex but they predict the streamlined 107th General Assembly will be one of the most productive.

Reapportionment under a "one man, one vote" court edict cut House membership from 137 two years ago to 99 but increased the number of senators by one to 33. The House total is the smallest since the 85 members in 1847.

Republicans will dominate the new session by a margin of 23-10 over Democrats in the Senate and 62-37 in the House, virtually assuring favorable treatment for GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes' second term programs.

Republicans outnumbered House Democrats in the last session, 75-62, but had an even 16-16 split in the Senate.

Leaders previously picked by party caucuses will be elected officially and installed. Legislators will be sworn after the Senate opens for business at 11:30 p.m. on the New Year holiday and the House follows suit at 2 p. m. Meeting times are set by law.

Lt. Gov. John W. Brown of Medina, reelected last month to a second four-year term after previously serving a brace of two-year terms, again will preside over Senate sessions by virtue of his office.

Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft of the Ohio Supreme Court will swear in senators, 17 of them elected to regular four-year terms to stagger future four-year terms.

Rep. Robert F. Reckman, R-Hamilton, House Republican floor leader last session, will call representatives to order as acting speaker and later turn the gavel over to Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-Wood, who will serve as speaker.

Supreme Court Judge C. William O'Neill, former governor, attorney general and House speaker, will swear in House members for two-year terms. Regular pay of senators and representatives is $8,000 a year.

Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, will serve another term as majority floor leader of the upper house and Sen. Frank W. King, D-Lucas, Ohio AFL-CIO president, again as minority leader.

During Atlantic City And Chicago Shows

Potteries Will Display Their Lines

The Homer Laughlin China Co. will introduce its new offerings at both shows — the ninth annual Atlantic City China & Glass Show opening next Sunday at Convention Hall in the resort city and the National Housewares Manufactures Association Show Jan. 16-20 at the McCormick Pl. Exhibition Hall in Chicago.

The Harker China Co. will bring out a new dinnerware line, but does not expect to present it at either show. Harker's said it will contact its established accounts direct, but does not expect to seek new business from gift shops, jewelry stores and department store accounts.

The traditional Pittsburgh show, in which all the firms participated, was held last in 1958. It was sponsored by the Associated Glass & Pottery Manufacturers, an organization of dinnerware and glass executives.

Since that time, the area firms have shifted between the sites in Atlantic City and Chicago, except for 1963, when they were all together again under one roof for the National China & Glass Show. It was sponsored at Chicago by the same group which had arranged the traditional Pittsburgh Show.

But the new Chicago exhibit was held only one year. In early 1964 and 1965, the four firms were split between the Chicago and Atlantic City exhibits. The same situation prevailed at the show in early 1966.

The Atlantic City Show is sponsored by the China, Glass & Pottery Association of America, Inc. It is arranged by George Little Management, Inc., of New York City. It will continue through Thursday, Jan. 12.

AT BOTH Atlantic City and Chicago, Homer Laughlin will present a unique colonial "White Ironstone" shape.

Beaver Hit Record 62

Columbiana County Lists 36 Road Deaths In 1966

Columbiana County's traffic toll for 1966 — 36 — was one of the highest in history, while in Beaver County a record 62 died on county streets and highways.

The Columbiana toll was three under the record of 39 claimed in 1965, but above the previous highs of 35 in 1952 and 1949.

There were three traffic deaths in East Liverpool and two in Wellsville. Midland counted two deaths and Salineville one.

Four men died in one mishap on Route 30 at Rock Camp and two persons each were claimed in accidents on Route 62 near Salem and on Route 558.

Twenty-three drivers, nine passengers and four pedestrians lost their lives during the year in Columbiana County, compared with 16 drivers, 15 passengers and 7 pedestrians in 1965.

As customary, the majority of traffic deaths occurred in the northern and central parts of the county, where the more level geography leads to higher speeds. Fifteen fatalities were recorded south of an east west line through Lisbon, while 21 took place in the north.

Route 7, north of East Liverpool, one of the heaviest traveled arteries in the county and scene of many fatal mishaps in the past, had no fatal accident in 1966. There were two fatal mishaps on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd. section of Route 7, however.

Six died on Route 30 between East Liverpool and Lisbon — four in one crash.

A breakdown in deaths by months shows: January 1, February 1, March 3, April 3, May 3, June 2, July 1, August 5, September 5, October 8, November 1, and December 2.

The patrol at Lisbon investigated a total of 1,411 mishaps of all kinds last year, well over the 1,365 of 1965.

Salineville Man Held For Drunken Driving

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Wintersville said Billy Ronald Kellogg of West End, Salineville, was headed north on Route 164 when his 1952 car veered off a curve and went into a ravine.

There was light damage to the side of the auto owned by Frank Lewellyn of Salineville R.D. 1, who was a passenger. The driver was jailed at Steubenville and is scheduled for a hearing at Richmond County Court Tuesday.

Candidates Are Reminded Of Beaver Filing Deadline

BEAVER — Reminders have been issued by William B. Smith, Beaver County Board of Elections director, of the March 7 deadline for filing nomination papers for the May primary.

Smith said Feb. 14 is the first day for candidates to obtain signatures of voters on nomination petitions.

County and local offices will be filled in the 1967 elections, with candidates to be nominated May 16.

Among county posts to be filled are the Common Pleas Court seat of Judge James Rowley who was appointed; three commissioners, sheriff, controllers, district attorney, prothonotary, recorder of deeds, register of wills, clerk of courts, treasurer, coroner and county surveyor.

Salaries for county officials elected in November will be higher in 1968 under increases authorized by the legislature last year.

The new salaries, with the current salaries in parenthesis, are: Commissioners $12,000 ($10,000); district attorney $12,000 ($10,000); sheriff $11,400 ($9,500); prothonotary $11,400 ($9,300); clerk of courts $11,400 ($9,300).

Recorder $11,160 ($9,300); register of wills $8,760 ($7,600); treasurer $9,840 ($8,200), and coroner $8,400 ($7,000).

Besides their regular salaries, the recorder of deeds, register of wills and county treasurer will receive commissions from the state for collection of various state fees and taxes. The law declares all such commissioners exceeding $7,600 are to be paid into the general fund.

plans to remain as the pastor.

Rev. Miller is the oldest in years of service among the local clergy.

Ordained to the ministry of the Presbyterian Church in 1931, he served as pastor of the Newell Presbyterian Church from 1931-35 and at Saltsburg, Pa., from 1935 until 1939, when he accepted the call to the former First Presbyterian Church here. While at Saltsburg, he also served as chaplain of Kiski Preparatory School.

He has served as moderator of Wheeling, Kittanning and Steubenville Presbyteries. He has been the author of a number of religious articles and has prepared an authorative talk to accompany his slides of a trip to the Holy Land, which he and his wife took several years ago.

REV. MILLER was born in Lemoyne, Pa., and was graduated from Lafayette College. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Yale University and his bachelor of sacred theology from Western Theological Seminary. He did graduate work in history and liturgies at Oxford University, England. He lived in Germany during the rise of the Nazi party there.

With the rank of major, Rev. Miller served as a chaplain in the Army from 1942-45 in the European Theater of Operations. He served in England, France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg and Germany. He received battle stars and a special commendation. At present he has been serving as chaplain in the Army Reserve, 83rd Infantry Division attached to Headquarters Company 7th Medium Tank Battallion.

His wife is the former Miriam Witmyer. They have two sons, the Rev. Michael R. Miller, a minister at Rochester, N. Y., and Lt. Stephen K. Miller, in the regular Navy and stationed at Norfolk. They have four grandchildren.

Fire Sweeps Trailer Home

SUMMITVILLE — Christmas toys and all the furniture and clothing of a family of six was destroyed when flames swept their trailer home near here Sunday afternoon.

No one was injured in the blaze, which charred the interior of the 10-by-50-foot trailer of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knight of Lewis Rd., about a mile and a half south of here.

The family was not at home when a neighbor — Harold Lewis — saw the trailer "engulfed by flames" at 3:50. He rushed to the trailer to see if there was anyone inside, and his wife telephoned Franklin Township volunteer firemen.

The trailer is located about a quarter of a mile from Route 644 on the edge of the farm of Mrs. Knight's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hicks.

The mother and four children —aged 8, 6, 3 and 3 months— were reported at her parents.

A family dog was outside and unharmed, firemen said.

Cause of the blaze and the damage have not yet been determined.

Knight is a truck driver. Firemen said the trailer was heated by an oil stove. They disconnected a fuel tank.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I give warm-over food as good a flavor as fresh-cooked?

A.—This can be done by seeing that the food does not come in direct contact with the heat. Place it in a double boiler and steam it.

Q. — What is the best way to store leftover putty in order to prevent its drying out and hardening?

A. — Keep it in a tightly-closed plastic bag.

YULE LIGHTING WINNERS. Charles McNeillie of 1200 Beaver Ave., Midland, won a first prize for decorating his house and John Shannon of 5 Carnegie Dr., won a first for his door decorations in the Midland Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest. John Radella of 1100 Beaver Ave. won a first in the prettiest decorations class, and McNeillie for the most original.

Laughlin's also will continue to show the "Victoria" fluted shape with white glaze. The heirloom shape has been marketed for several years.

The firm will show its old standbys — the modern coupe and the traditional rim shapes— with new treatments and colormated holloware.

TST's exhibit will feature the new Design 70 line, successful from the time it was introduced in New York City in 1966. Design 70 is marked by a brown body decorated in five colors and a raised enamel floral design on top.

Two new patterns will be shown on the "Coralstone" line. They are a fruit bouquet called "Bountiful" and done predominantly in blue and another titled "She Loves Me Not," which is a border underglaze predominantly in pink.

Two Earl American patterns will be shown on the proved "Versatile" shape. They are "Country Store," in shades of green and turquoise, and another still unnamed that is highlighted by a border of purple grapes.

Also aiming at the Early American market which accounts for a large per centage of sales in the housewares field, TST will introduce a new pattern called "Reveille." The pattern features a rooster in overglaze on a textured honey-colored glaze. The line includes many serving accessories.

The firm also will present a new, extensive line of "Ambassador" coffee mugs, done in vivid hues of gold, red, orange and blue.

AT THE Chicago Show, Hall China will exhibit new items in a non - stick Teflon - coated line of cookingware which it first introduced late in 1966. The Teflon coating first was utilized on casseroles. The company said some additional items of cookingware with the same innovation will be shown to the wholesale buyers at Chicago.

Hall's also will show its traditional line of teapots and cookingware.

Harker's will introduce a new dinnerware line on a shape called "Eurasia," but does not expect to present it at any of the January trade shows. "Eurasia" features geometric patterns on a three - dimension color treatment.

David G. Boyce, president of the firm, explained Harker's will not be represented at any of the trade shows "because of the fact we have commitments that will pretty well take up our capacity for the first six months of the year."

"We expect to contact our regular accounts by direct solicitation, but we don't care to expose ourselves generally to new accounts in the gift, jewelry and department store fields," he said.

City Man, 26, Injured In Incident At Tavern

A 26-year-old East Liverpool man was in "fairly good" condition Sunday night at City Hospital with severe lacerations of the right arm and an abdominal injury which he told authorities were suffered in an incident early yesterday morning in the parking lot outside a California Hollow tavern.

James Landis of 722 Edwards Ave. was taken to the hospital about 4 a.m. after the incident outside Higg's Inn, according to reports given to the East Liverpool police department and the sheriff's office at Lisbon.

The police department was notified of Landis' injury at 8:21 a.m. Sunday in a telephone call from City Hospital. Since the alleged incident occurred outside the local department's jurisdiction, the sheriff's office was notified. Deputies were investigating.

Lisbon Youth, Sister Hurt In Car Collision

LISBON — A boy and his sister were injured at 4 p.m. Sunday when their car splintered a utility pole in the 200 block on E. Washington St. — two blocks from their home.

The accident was the fourth here New Year's Day. All the others were hit-skips, police said.

Thomas Kidder, 16, the driver, received a lacerated mouth, and Jyll, 14, received a dislocated hip and lacerations of the forehead and chin. They were taken to Salem City Hospital by the volunteer fire department ambulance. Thomas was released after treatment.

The one - car accident occurred opposite the residence of Police Capt. John Varner, who was sitting in the police cruiser with Policeman Richard Koffel.

They said the young people jumped out of the car after the crash, then fell to the ground. The impact snapped off the pole and left it suspended by the wires. Police said some of the wires snapped and fell crackling near the victims.

John Kemats of 114 Jerome St. reported he returned home about 2:20 a.m. and heard water running. Investigating along the alley side of his house, he found car tracks through his hedge and between a parked car and the side of the house.

The hit-skip vehicle missed the parked car but scraped the side of the house and knocked off a downspout and water faucet. The vehicle continued into the back yard, knocked down a 10-foot pine and ran through the grape arbor before returning to the alley.

Ten minutes later, Mike Haifley of W. Chestnut St. was stopped for a stoplight on N. Beaver St. at the W. Lincoln Way intersection and was struck by a turning car.

Haifley said the car stopped some distance up the street, hten kept going. He was able to get the license number and police charged James McGoogan of Lisbon R.D. 1 with leaving the scene of an accident. His hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. today.

A witness reported to police at 3:25 a.m. that a green 1957 car had knocked down a street marker post at the junction of Jerome St. and Lee Ave. near the Fairgrounds. The car did not stop and continued north on Route 164.

Cars driven by Robert Paul Exline, 30, Elkton, and Louis H. Ingledue 43, Lisbon R.D. 1, collided at 4 p.m. Saturday in the alley between the Courthouse and Hamilton's Drug Store. Both were traveling south.

Police charged Exline with failure to yield the right-of-way. They said he pulled from a parking meter on the west side of the alley into the path of Mrs. Ingledue.

2 Salem Men Injured When Auto Overturns

Two young Salem area men were injured early Sunday when their car overturned on its top along Route 9, about a mile north of Route 172, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Daniel Adams, 18, of Salem R.D. 4 was headed north in a 1956 coach when he lost control on the icy payment and the car veered off the highway and overturned.

He and a passenger, Johnny Holenchick, 20, of Salem, were treated at Salem Central Clinic. The car was demolished, the patrol said, and Adams was cited for speeding.

Since man appeared on earth, the Mississippi has lowered the surface of the land by about 150 feet.

Three Men Face New Questioning In Beaver Thefts

BEAVER — Three men linked to a series of burglaries and armed robberies in Beaver County in the past month faced further questioning today at the Beaver County Jail following their return from Indiana, where they were captured Friday.

Steve Snyder, 23, of Ambridge, John Pitch, 18, of Baden and Wesley Tubman, 25, of Jacksonville Fla. were returned from Angola Ind. Saturday.

Pennsylvania state police at Chippewa, Beaver County detectives and Aliquippa police have questioned the trio concerning recent burglaries and robberies, including one at a Baden area gun shop.

Snyder was wounded in the right arm when shot by an officer in Angola when the three attempted to flee in a gun battle when they saw the officer's car following them.

Robbery

Fire Sweeps Trailer Home

SUMMITVILLE — Christmas toys and all the furniture and clothing of a family of six was destroyed when flames swept their trailer home near here Sunday afternoon.

No one was injured in the blaze, which charred the interior of the 10-by-50-foot trailer of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knight of Lewis Rd., about a mile and a half south of here.

The family was not at home when a neighbor — Harold Lewis — saw the trailer "engulfed by flames" at 3:50. He rushed to the trailer to see if there was anyone inside, and his wife telephoned Franklin Township volunteer firemen.

The trailer is located about a quarter of a mile from Route 644 on the edge of the farm of Mrs. Knight's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hicks.

The mother and four children —aged 8, 6, 3 and 3 months— were reported at her parents.

A family dog was outside and unharmed, firemen said.

Cause of the blaze and the damage have not yet been determined.

Knight is a truck driver. Firemen said the trailer was heated by an oil stove. They disconnected a fuel tank.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I give warm-over food as good a flavor as fresh-cooked?

A.—This can be done by seeing that the food does not come in direct contact with the heat. Place it in a double boiler and steam it.

Q. — What is the best way to store leftover putty in order to prevent its drying out and hardening?

A. — Keep it in a tightly-closed plastic bag.

Laughlin's also will continue to show the "Victoria" fluted shape with white glaze. The heirloom shape has been marketed for several years.

The firm will show its old standbys — the modern coupe and the traditional rim shapes— with new treatments and colormated holloware.

TST's exhibit will feature the new Design 70 line, successful from the time it was introduced in New York City in 1966. Design 70 is marked by a brown body decorated in five colors and a raised enamel floral design on top.

Two new patterns will be shown on the "Coralstone" line. They are a fruit bouquet called "Bountiful" and done predominantly in blue and another titled "She Loves Me Not," which is a border underglaze predominantly in pink.

Two Earl American patterns will be shown on the proved "Versatile" shape. They are "Country Store," in shades of green and turquoise, and another still unnamed that is highlighted by a border of purple grapes.

Also aiming at the Early American market which accounts for a large per centage of sales in the housewares field, TST will introduce a new pattern called "Reveille." The pattern features a rooster in overglaze on a textured honey-colored glaze. The line includes many serving accessories.

The firm also will present a new, extensive line of "Ambassador" coffee mugs, done in vivid hues of gold, red, orange and blue.

AT THE Chicago Show, Hall China will exhibit new items in a non - stick Teflon - coated line of cookingware which it first introduced late in 1966. The Teflon coating first was utilized on casseroles. The company said some additional items of cookingware with the same innovation will be shown to the wholesale buyers at Chicago.

Hall's also will show its traditional line of teapots and cookingware.

Harker's will introduce a new dinnerware line on a shape called "Eurasia," but does not expect to present it at any of the January trade shows. "Eurasia" features geometric patterns on a three - dimension color treatment.

David G. Boyce, president of the firm, explained Harker's will not be represented at any of the trade shows "because of the fact we have commitments that will pretty well take up our capacity for the first six months of the year."

"We expect to contact our regular accounts by direct solicitation, but we don't care to expose ourselves generally to new accounts in the gift, jewelry and department store fields," he said.

City Man, 26, Injured In Incident At Tavern

A 26-year-old East Liverpool man was in "fairly good" condition Sunday night at City Hospital with severe lacerations of the right arm and an abdominal injury which he told authorities were suffered in an incident early yesterday morning in the parking lot outside a California Hollow tavern.

James Landis of 722 Edwards Ave. was taken to the hospital about 4 a.m. after the incident outside Higg's Inn, according to reports given to the East Liverpool police department and the sheriff's office at Lisbon.

The police department was notified of Landis' injury at 8:21 a.m. Sunday in a telephone call from City Hospital. Since the alleged incident occurred outside the local department's jurisdiction, the sheriff's office was notified. Deputies were investigating.

Lisbon Youth, Sister Hurt In Car Collision

LISBON — A boy and his sister were injured at 4 p.m. Sunday when their car splintered a utility pole in the 200 block on E. Washington St. — two blocks from their home.

The accident was the fourth here New Year's Day. All the others were hit-skips, police said.

Thomas Kidder, 16, the driver, received a lacerated mouth, and Jyll, 14, received a dislocated hip and lacerations of the forehead and chin. They were taken to Salem City Hospital by the volunteer fire department ambulance. Thomas was released after treatment.

The one - car accident occurred opposite the residence of Police Capt. John Varner, who was sitting in the police cruiser with Policeman Richard Koffel.

They said the young people jumped out of the car after the crash, then fell to the ground. The impact snapped off the pole and left it suspended by the wires. Police said some of the wires snapped and fell crackling near the victims.

John Kemats of 114 Jerome St. reported he returned home about 2:20 a.m. and heard water running. Investigating along the alley side of his house, he found car tracks through his hedge and between a parked car and the side of the house.

The hit-skip vehicle missed the parked car but scraped the side of the house and knocked off a downspout and water faucet. The vehicle continued into the back yard, knocked down a 10-foot pine and ran through the grape arbor before returning to the alley.

Ten minutes later, Mike Haifley of W. Chestnut St. was stopped for a stoplight on N. Beaver St. at the W. Lincoln Way intersection and was struck by a turning car.

Haifley said the car stopped some distance up the street, hten kept going. He was able to get the license number and police charged James McGoogan of Lisbon R.D. 1 with leaving the scene of an accident. His hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. today.

A witness reported to police at 3:25 a.m. that a green 1957 car had knocked down a street marker post at the junction of Jerome St. and Lee Ave. near the Fairgrounds. The car did not stop and continued north on Route 164.

Cars driven by Robert Paul Exline, 30, Elkton, and Louis H. Ingledue 43, Lisbon R.D. 1, collided at 4 p.m. Saturday in the alley between the Courthouse and Hamilton's Drug Store. Both were traveling south.

Police charged Exline with failure to yield the right-of-way. They said he pulled from a parking meter on the west side of the alley into the path of Mrs. Ingledue.

2 Salem Men Injured When Auto Overturns

Two young Salem area men were injured early Sunday when their car overturned on its top along Route 9, about a mile north of Route 172, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Daniel Adams, 18, of Salem R.D. 4 was headed north in a 1956 coach when he lost control on the icy payment and the car veered off the highway and overturned.

He and a passenger, Johnny Holenchick, 20, of Salem, were treated at Salem Central Clinic. The car was demolished, the patrol said, and Adams was cited for speeding.

Since man appeared on earth, the Mississippi has lowered the surface of the land by about 150 feet.

Three Men Face New Questioning In Beaver Thefts

BEAVER — Three men linked to a series of burglaries and armed robberies in Beaver County in the past month faced further questioning today at the Beaver County Jail following their return from Indiana, where they were captured Friday.

Steve Snyder, 23, of Ambridge, John Pitch, 18, of Baden and Wesley Tubman, 25, of Jacksonville Fla. were returned from Angola Ind. Saturday.

Pennsylvania state police at Chippewa, Beaver County detectives and Aliquippa police have questioned the trio concerning recent burglaries and robberies, including one at a Baden area gun shop.

Snyder was wounded in the right arm when shot by an officer in Angola when the three attempted to flee in a gun battle when they saw the officer's car following them.

Great 'Spoonfed' Society

The federal government, which has subsidized the school lunch program for the last 20 years and is about to begin serving breakfasts in some schools, now is planning a still greater meal service: Lunches for the youngsters during the summer, when school is out.

The proposal for year-round feeding is being cooked up in the Agriculture Department which supervises the present school lunch program. As conceived by the department, the summer lunches would be made available to poor children at selected day-care centers, settlement houses, summer camps and playgrounds.

Presumably the summer feedings would be financed jointly by federal, state and local governments as well as the selected local agencies themselves, the way the school lunch and breakfast programs are financed, with Uncle Sam picking up 20 per cent of the meal check.

SCHOOL LUNCHES now are served in more than 71,000 schools in nearly every state and the program has grown into a billion-dollar food bill. By 1975, expanding school enrollments probably will boost this bill by at least $250 million even without new government programs.

Although there has been no scientific study made of the subject, the Agriculture Department has hundreds of letters from teachers and school officials noting that after school lunches were established, poor children perked up after lunch, had longer attention spans, were better behaved and sometimes earned better grades. They also gained weight and attendance was improved.

Although the year-round lunch program is a worthy one and if President Johnson decides to ask Congress for legislation to authorize it, the program faces a number of obstacles.

One of the most worrisome problems is that only about half the children eat school lunches at schools where they are available. The urge to be "one of the crowd," officials say, leads many from the school cafeteria to soda fountains and drive-ins for meals deemed inadequate by many nutritionists.

ANOTHER OBSTACLE is that 40,000 schools, including many in urban areas, still have no feeding programs for the 9 million students enrolled. Of these, federal officials say, about one million are needy children.

Above all is the lack of solid research to show whether the surging feeding programs do, in fact, enhance learning or teach children good nutritional habits.

The absence of such evidence, however, does not discourage the Great Society planners who moreover are aiming at nothing less than eventually making a balanced diet available to even infants and pre-schoolers—a federal diet program from the cradle to the grave, no less.

The Fickleness Champ

Although it's always been woman's prerogative to change her mind nature is the real champion of the fickleness world. Man has known all along how impossible it is to predict the weather. Now meteorologists confirm the fact.

Nature, according to a computer analysis has set a limit of about two weeks on how far ahead man can predict the weather. So many factors, including "complex interactions of air and sea and air and land, affect the movement of air masses that there appears to be a built-in indeterminacy to the weather," it was explained to a recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The speaker was Dr. Robert M. White who heads the Environmental Science Services Administration that includes the federal Weather Bureau.

While Dr. White said weathermen were getting better and better at predicting weather conditions, he was less hopeful for accuracy in predicting precipitation. "It's comparatively easy to say it will snow tomorrow," he explains, "but very difficult to say how much will fall.

So what's new?

Pay-As-You-Go Myth

The Puritan ethic may be dying elsewhere, but not on Capitol Hill. To stem any spendthrift tendencies, Congress has seen fit to erect a ceiling on the national debt. This legal lid both reasserts the national will to pay-as-you-go and provides congressmen with an opportunity to register their belief in financial sanity at the federal level.

The trouble, of course, is that the ceiling must be adjusted ever upward to fit spending proclivities. Raising the debt ceiling becomes an annual ritual accompanied by breast-beating and belated vows to hold the line on profligacy.

This year the ceremony is likely to be of short duration because there is a certain urgency in raising the limit. Treasury borrowings have been scraping against the present $330 billion ceiling on the national debt decreed by the last Congress.

THE SQUEEZE got so tight in early December that the government borrowed $169 million from the Federal Reserve System. It paid the loan back, with interest, a few days later as quarterly corporate income taxes began to come in.

Interest payments on the public debt are running nearly $1 billion more than was estimated in President Johnson's fiscal 1967 budget. Computed annual interest charge on the debt as of Nov. 30 was $13,647,000,000.

Thus it is expected that as soon as the 90th Congress convenes the administration will ask it to lift the national debt limit once again. The amount may be $2 billion or more. Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler has a personal interest in the outcome. Under the law, the treasury secretary must make good any checks written in excess of the debt limit.

The nimble minds at the theasury so far have come up with devices to spare their boss this fate. One attractive way out of the debt dilemma is to sell so-called Certificates of Participation. Effect of these sales is to reduce the spending figure in the administrative budget and thus reduce the budget deficit by an equal amount.

SALE OF $1.1 billion of government financial assets through the CP gimmick is scheduled for Jan. 5 by the Federal National Mortgage Association. President Johnson originally intended to sell $4.2 billion of CP's in the current fiscal year. But he was forced to cancel the first offering during last September's tight money crisis.

With market conditions improving, the administration is emboldened to try again. The beauty of the CP device, as one financial writer has put it, is that President Johnson "can make the deficit in his new budget as large or as small as he wishes without affecting the real level of spending." The device, moreover, "could even be used to reduce the deficit to such a modest level as to lessen the apparent need for a tax increase."

This is the kind of debt juggling that promises to outmode the New Economics which holds that budgets ought to be in balance during prosperous times.

Instant Foods

Instant foods have come a long way since Colonial women dried apples in the sun.

Nowadays dried shrimp, salads and other delicacies fill the knapsacks of campers roughing it in the woods. Dried ice cream has been experimentally marketed, and some experts believe it will become a popular confection.

The old-fashioned method of drying a food is to heat it; the new way is to freeze it, the National Geographic Society says. The frozen food is placed in a vacuum chamber where air pressure is only one millimeter of mercury compared to normal pressure of 760 millimeters.

In freeze-drying, a food's salts, sugars and proteins remain in their original place. They are not drawn to the surface of the food, as in conventional drying methods. Thus, there is little shrinkage or shriveling, and rehydration is not hampered by a crust of concentrated compounds on the surface.

About 85 to 98 per cent of the water in a food is removed during freze-drying. This prevents spoilage not only by bacteria but by enzymes. The product does not require refrigeration, and will keep indefinitely in an air-tight package. It can be quickly rehydrated for use with water.

Still Waiting

How High The War?

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

Everyone knows the Viet war is costly, but no one realized how costly until the other day when the Washington Post revealed that it costs $332,000 to kill one Viet Cong. The writer arrived at his figure by taking the monthly average of enemy killed and dividing it by the monthly cost of the war, which now seems to be running at a rate of $1.7 billion.

Art Buchwald

If these figures are correct, it would take $332 million to kill 1,000 of the enemy, and even if we found a division of North Vietnamese soliders we wouldn't have the funds to detroy it.

It is obvious that if we want to have both guns and butter in 1967 we're going to have to cut down the cost of knocking off the Viet Cong.

Better brains than I have been working on the problem, and while no decision has been made, these are a few of the suggestions that the experts have come up with.

IT HAS BEEN proposed that instead of bombs American planes drop new automobiles that have been called in for defects on the suburbs of Hanoi. Once enough cars have been dropped, the North Vietnamese would proceed to kill each other on their own highways (providing we don't destroy the highways). The main value of this plan, besides eliminating the enemy, is that it would solve the problem of what the United States should do with its unsafe cars.

Another project that is being given close study is to drop pamphlets on North Vietnam and Viet Cong zones offering anyone who deserts to our side a $25,000 home, free education for his children, color television and a paid-up membership in the country club of his choice.

This would come to far less $332,000 and would certainly be a great propaganda victory for our side.

If the Viet Cong deserter prefers, we could give him a numbered bank account in Switzerland so Ho Chi Minh would never find out about it.

Still another suggestion is that the United States build American-type factories all along the North-South Vietnam border. The smoke from the factories, with the help of a prevailing southeasterly wind, would pollute the air of North Vietnam and the communists would slowly expire. It might take a little longer than other methods of eliminating the enemy, but the factories could be making war materials, so all the effort would not be wasted.

THAT IS A LITTLE far out and would require a great deal of coordination, but there are supposed to be quite a few American draft dodgers in Canada. In exchange for an amnesty we would persuade them to go to Hanoi, and they could teach North Vietnamese students how to avoid their draft. If there were enough North Vietnamese draft dodgers who would refuse to fight, we could save several billion dollars a year.

No idea is too far-fetched in time of war, and one that is also being considered has to do with giving out "contracts" to certain people in the American underworld. The going rate in the underworld to wipe out somebody is $25,000.

The idea would be for the United States to make a "contract" with an underworld syndicate and let private enterprise take over the elimination of our Viet Cong friends.

These are only a few of the suggestions that are being considered. The reason why a solution to the problem has to be found fast is that at the present cost of fighting the enemy we really can't afford to wipe them out. As a matter of fact, the less Viet Cong we kill, the more money we save and the stronger our economy will be to fight the war.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

In the past two months the Citizens Committee has spent a lot of time at meetings with school officials and the public trying to arrive at some kind of a solution to the Southern Local School problem.

After reviewing the school system's income and expenses, the Citizen's Committee decided that it would back a levy to increase the schools' income by some $49,000 a year.

By passing such a levy the school district would receive sufficient income to repair the buildings that need repairing and eliminate the necessity of closing three of our buildings and running two shifts in the remaining three buildings.

The committee realizes the students of Salineville will not be inconvenienced as much as the students of the outlying areas, but we wish to point out a few reasons why Salineville parents should not want to see a two-shift school day come to be.

First, what amount of our teachers will be willing to return to such a system next September? Second, how many outlying areas will try to leave Southern Local? And third, where will Salineville children go to school if Southern Local District would not be able to have sufficient funds for next year or a sufficient amount of teachers would not return?

We realize that everyone has many activities and duties to perform, but we are asking every interested person who believes that their children's education is worth a few hours time to meet with us at the Salineville grade school Tuesday evening at 7:30.

At this meeting the Citizen's Committee will discuss any questions you might have and also try to give you important facts on the school expenses and incomes. One important thing to remember is this: If three of our schools are closed and stand idle how much deterioration and vandalism will occur before sufficient funds are raised to reopen them, would they ever be reopened or would we be forced to pass a levy to build a centralized grade school?

We hope to see you at our meeting regardless whether you are for the levy or opposed to it, but the time has come for the lowest taxed district in the county to ask itself, are we satisfied with what we will get if we won't spend three to five cents a day in increased taxes to get something better.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

Too many deaths and injuries result from stalled vehicles on railroad tracks. The truck with the flammable fuel oil that exploded and caught fire killing 12 people was only one example.

If the following safety device was put in at all crossings we are sure many deaths would not occur.

Put in a safety alarm that could be broken by a person who was stalled on tracks. The breaking of the glass would set off flares, red lights or noises up and down the track far enough away that the train could be stopped.

Red China

By David Lawrence

Its Role Remains A Mystery

Red China continues to mystify the world. Detonation of the fifth nuclear device since 1964 by the Peking regime comes only a few weeks after the news leaked out that the Soviet government had mobilized a large number of troops on the Russian-Chinese border. American officials are watching carefully the new maneuvers but are unable to estimate the exact size of the two armies stationed on the 6,000-mile border by both Peking and Moscow.

Certainly the increase in the Soviet military budget reflects the cost of the large-scale military preparations that are being made as a defense against possible action by Red China.

The world, therefore, faces an unusual challenge, the implications of which have not yet been clearly established.

Though a new war front could emerge on the Asian continent, the impression is given by American officials that Russia and Red China are each more concerned with political developments designed primarily to improve their respective positions.

Russia, for example, is putting on political rather than military pressure to threaten the NATO alliance and feels that much progress has been made already in disintegrating that organization, particularly as its headquarters has been moved from France and Allied troops have been withdrawn at the instigation of Gen. De Gaulle.

Even as conventional forces are being strengthened, the eagerness of Red China to build up its nuclear power is becoming more and more apparent. The Communists in Peking insist that they do not plan any direct intervention in Vietnam but that they are ready to get into the fray if the Hanoi regime should reach a critical position and appeal to Peking for military support by Red Chinese troops.

There is reason to believe that the public controversy between Red China and the Soviet Union as to which is rendering the more effective help to the North Vietnamese is related to a possible effort that may be made to increase military supplies and thus keep American forces bogged down in Southeast Asia. In case of the outbreak of another "limited war" in either Europe or Asia, the American armies would not be able to come to the defense of other Asian or European nations which may become involved in the new struggle.

The nuclear strength of the Peking regime has up to now been regarded as relatively unimportant in comparison with that of the Soviet Union or the United States but the latest explosion indicates that Red China is substantially increasing its power beyond its first bomb, detonated in 1964, which was about the size of the one that destroyed Hiroshima — an equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT.

It's conceded that Peking will not be in a position to use its nuclear power against Russia without running the risk of a devastating retaliation, but there are signs that the Red Chinese intend to build up their strength and meanwhile to threaten neighboring countries by emphasizing the potentiality of nuclear power.

Peiping's announcement of its latest test contains boastful comments concerning the success of the nuclear tests thus far conducted. These were called "a heavy blow to the plot of U.S. imperialism and Soviet modern revisionism which have been collaborating in a vain attempt to enforce their nuclear monopoly and sabotage the revolutionary struggles of all oppressed people and oppressed nations."

The statement then speaks of the nuclear tests as "a great encouragement to the heroic Vietnamese people who are waging the struggle against U.S. aggression."

Recent events — the mobilization of troops on the Chinese-Russian border and Peking's nuclear tests—dramatize the fact that the Asian situation could bring a larger crisis which would affect the whole world and would not necessarily be confined to military operations in South Vietnam.

Although the year-round lunch program is a worthy one and if President Johnson decides to ask Congress for legislation to authorize it, the program faces a number of obstacles.

One of the most worrisome problems is that only about half the children eat school lunches at schools where they are available. The urge to be "one of the crowd," officials say, leads many from the school cafeteria to soda fountains and drive-ins for meals deemed inadequate by many nutritionists.

ANOTHER OBSTACLE is that 40,000 schools, including many in urban areas, still have no feeding programs for the 9 million students enrolled. Of these, federal officials say, about one million are needy children.

Above all is the lack of solid research to show whether the surging feeding programs do, in fact, enhance learning or teach children good nutritional habits.

The absence of such evidence, however, does not discourage the Great Society planners who moreover are aiming at nothing less than eventually making a balanced diet available to even infants and pre-schoolers—a federal diet program from the cradle to the grave, no less.

The Fickleness Champ

Although it's always been woman's prerogative to change her mind nature is the real champion of the fickleness world. Man has known all along how impossible it is to predict the weather. Now meteorologists confirm the fact.

Nature, according to a computer analysis has set a limit of about two weeks on how far ahead man can predict the weather. So many factors, including "complex interactions of air and sea and air and land, affect the movement of air masses that there appears to be a built-in indeterminacy to the weather," it was explained to a recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The speaker was Dr. Robert M. White who heads the Environmental Science Services Administration that includes the federal Weather Bureau.

While Dr. White said weathermen were getting better and better at predicting weather conditions, he was less hopeful for accuracy in predicting precipitation. "It's comparatively easy to say it will snow tomorrow," he explains, "but very difficult to say how much will fall.

So what's new?

Pay-As-You-Go Myth

The Puritan ethic may be dying elsewhere, but not on Capitol Hill. To stem any spendthrift tendencies, Congress has seen fit to erect a ceiling on the national debt. This legal lid both reasserts the national will to pay-as-you-go and provides congressmen with an opportunity to register their belief in financial sanity at the federal level.

The trouble, of course, is that the ceiling must be adjusted ever upward to fit spending proclivities. Raising the debt ceiling becomes an annual ritual accompanied by breast-beating and belated vows to hold the line on profligacy.

This year the ceremony is likely to be of short duration because there is a certain urgency in raising the limit. Treasury borrowings have been scraping against the present $330 billion ceiling on the national debt decreed by the last Congress.

THE SQUEEZE got so tight in early December that the government borrowed $169 million from the Federal Reserve System. It paid the loan back, with interest, a few days later as quarterly corporate income taxes began to come in.

Interest payments on the public debt are running nearly $1 billion more than was estimated in President Johnson's fiscal 1967 budget. Computed annual interest charge on the debt as of Nov. 30 was $13,647,000,000.

Thus it is expected that as soon as the 90th Congress convenes the administration will ask it to lift the national debt limit once again. The amount may be $2 billion or more. Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler has a personal interest in the outcome. Under the law, the treasury secretary must make good any checks written in excess of the debt limit.

The nimble minds at the theasury so far have come up with devices to spare their boss this fate. One attractive way out of the debt dilemma is to sell so-called Certificates of Participation. Effect of these sales is to reduce the spending figure in the administrative budget and thus reduce the budget deficit by an equal amount.

SALE OF $1.1 billion of government financial assets through the CP gimmick is scheduled for Jan. 5 by the Federal National Mortgage Association. President Johnson originally intended to sell $4.2 billion of CP's in the current fiscal year. But he was forced to cancel the first offering during last September's tight money crisis.

With market conditions improving, the administration is emboldened to try again. The beauty of the CP device, as one financial writer has put it, is that President Johnson "can make the deficit in his new budget as large or as small as he wishes without affecting the real level of spending." The device, moreover, "could even be used to reduce the deficit to such a modest level as to lessen the apparent need for a tax increase."

This is the kind of debt juggling that promises to outmode the New Economics which holds that budgets ought to be in balance during prosperous times.

Instant Foods

Instant foods have come a long way since Colonial women dried apples in the sun.

Nowadays dried shrimp, salads and other delicacies fill the knapsacks of campers roughing it in the woods. Dried ice cream has been experimentally marketed, and some experts believe it will become a popular confection.

The old-fashioned method of drying a food is to heat it; the new way is to freeze it, the National Geographic Society says. The frozen food is placed in a vacuum chamber where air pressure is only one millimeter of mercury compared to normal pressure of 760 millimeters.

In freeze-drying, a food's salts, sugars and proteins remain in their original place. They are not drawn to the surface of the food, as in conventional drying methods. Thus, there is little shrinkage or shriveling, and rehydration is not hampered by a crust of concentrated compounds on the surface.

About 85 to 98 per cent of the water in a food is removed during freze-drying. This prevents spoilage not only by bacteria but by enzymes. The product does not require refrigeration, and will keep indefinitely in an air-tight package. It can be quickly rehydrated for use with water.

Still Waiting

How High The War?

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

Everyone knows the Viet war is costly, but no one realized how costly until the other day when the Washington Post revealed that it costs $332,000 to kill one Viet Cong. The writer arrived at his figure by taking the monthly average of enemy killed and dividing it by the monthly cost of the war, which now seems to be running at a rate of $1.7 billion.

Art Buchwald

If these figures are correct, it would take $332 million to kill 1,000 of the enemy, and even if we found a division of North Vietnamese soliders we wouldn't have the funds to detroy it.

It is obvious that if we want to have both guns and butter in 1967 we're going to have to cut down the cost of knocking off the Viet Cong.

Better brains than I have been working on the problem, and while no decision has been made, these are a few of the suggestions that the experts have come up with.

IT HAS BEEN proposed that instead of bombs American planes drop new automobiles that have been called in for defects on the suburbs of Hanoi. Once enough cars have been dropped, the North Vietnamese would proceed to kill each other on their own highways (providing we don't destroy the highways). The main value of this plan, besides eliminating the enemy, is that it would solve the problem of what the United States should do with its unsafe cars.

Another project that is being given close study is to drop pamphlets on North Vietnam and Viet Cong zones offering anyone who deserts to our side a $25,000 home, free education for his children, color television and a paid-up membership in the country club of his choice.

This would come to far less $332,000 and would certainly be a great propaganda victory for our side.

If the Viet Cong deserter prefers, we could give him a numbered bank account in Switzerland so Ho Chi Minh would never find out about it.

Still another suggestion is that the United States build American-type factories all along the North-South Vietnam border. The smoke from the factories, with the help of a prevailing southeasterly wind, would pollute the air of North Vietnam and the communists would slowly expire. It might take a little longer than other methods of eliminating the enemy, but the factories could be making war materials, so all the effort would not be wasted.

THAT IS A LITTLE far out and would require a great deal of coordination, but there are supposed to be quite a few American draft dodgers in Canada. In exchange for an amnesty we would persuade them to go to Hanoi, and they could teach North Vietnamese students how to avoid their draft. If there were enough North Vietnamese draft dodgers who would refuse to fight, we could save several billion dollars a year.

No idea is too far-fetched in time of war, and one that is also being considered has to do with giving out "contracts" to certain people in the American underworld. The going rate in the underworld to wipe out somebody is $25,000.

The idea would be for the United States to make a "contract" with an underworld syndicate and let private enterprise take over the elimination of our Viet Cong friends.

These are only a few of the suggestions that are being considered. The reason why a solution to the problem has to be found fast is that at the present cost of fighting the enemy we really can't afford to wipe them out. As a matter of fact, the less Viet Cong we kill, the more money we save and the stronger our economy will be to fight the war.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

In the past two months the Citizens Committee has spent a lot of time at meetings with school officials and the public trying to arrive at some kind of a solution to the Southern Local School problem.

After reviewing the school system's income and expenses, the Citizen's Committee decided that it would back a levy to increase the schools' income by some $49,000 a year.

By passing such a levy the school district would receive sufficient income to repair the buildings that need repairing and eliminate the necessity of closing three of our buildings and running two shifts in the remaining three buildings.

The committee realizes the students of Salineville will not be inconvenienced as much as the students of the outlying areas, but we wish to point out a few reasons why Salineville parents should not want to see a two-shift school day come to be.

First, what amount of our teachers will be willing to return to such a system next September? Second, how many outlying areas will try to leave Southern Local? And third, where will Salineville children go to school if Southern Local District would not be able to have sufficient funds for next year or a sufficient amount of teachers would not return?

We realize that everyone has many activities and duties to perform, but we are asking every interested person who believes that their children's education is worth a few hours time to meet with us at the Salineville grade school Tuesday evening at 7:30.

At this meeting the Citizen's Committee will discuss any questions you might have and also try to give you important facts on the school expenses and incomes. One important thing to remember is this: If three of our schools are closed and stand idle how much deterioration and vandalism will occur before sufficient funds are raised to reopen them, would they ever be reopened or would we be forced to pass a levy to build a centralized grade school?

We hope to see you at our meeting regardless whether you are for the levy or opposed to it, but the time has come for the lowest taxed district in the county to ask itself, are we satisfied with what we will get if we won't spend three to five cents a day in increased taxes to get something better.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

Too many deaths and injuries result from stalled vehicles on railroad tracks. The truck with the flammable fuel oil that exploded and caught fire killing 12 people was only one example.

If the following safety device was put in at all crossings we are sure many deaths would not occur.

Put in a safety alarm that could be broken by a person who was stalled on tracks. The breaking of the glass would set off flares, red lights or noises up and down the track far enough away that the train could be stopped.

Red China

By David Lawrence

Its Role Remains A Mystery

Red China continues to mystify the world. Detonation of the fifth nuclear device since 1964 by the Peking regime comes only a few weeks after the news leaked out that the Soviet government had mobilized a large number of troops on the Russian-Chinese border. American officials are watching carefully the new maneuvers but are unable to estimate the exact size of the two armies stationed on the 6,000-mile border by both Peking and Moscow.

Certainly the increase in the Soviet military budget reflects the cost of the large-scale military preparations that are being made as a defense against possible action by Red China.

The world, therefore, faces an unusual challenge, the implications of which have not yet been clearly established.

Though a new war front could emerge on the Asian continent, the impression is given by American officials that Russia and Red China are each more concerned with political developments designed primarily to improve their respective positions.

Russia, for example, is putting on political rather than military pressure to threaten the NATO alliance and feels that much progress has been made already in disintegrating that organization, particularly as its headquarters has been moved from France and Allied troops have been withdrawn at the instigation of Gen. De Gaulle.

Even as conventional forces are being strengthened, the eagerness of Red China to build up its nuclear power is becoming more and more apparent. The Communists in Peking insist that they do not plan any direct intervention in Vietnam but that they are ready to get into the fray if the Hanoi regime should reach a critical position and appeal to Peking for military support by Red Chinese troops.

There is reason to believe that the public controversy between Red China and the Soviet Union as to which is rendering the more effective help to the North Vietnamese is related to a possible effort that may be made to increase military supplies and thus keep American forces bogged down in Southeast Asia. In case of the outbreak of another "limited war" in either Europe or Asia, the American armies would not be able to come to the defense of other Asian or European nations which may become involved in the new struggle.

The nuclear strength of the Peking regime has up to now been regarded as relatively unimportant in comparison with that of the Soviet Union or the United States but the latest explosion indicates that Red China is substantially increasing its power beyond its first bomb, detonated in 1964, which was about the size of the one that destroyed Hiroshima — an equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT.

It's conceded that Peking will not be in a position to use its nuclear power against Russia without running the risk of a devastating retaliation, but there are signs that the Red Chinese intend to build up their strength and meanwhile to threaten neighboring countries by emphasizing the potentiality of nuclear power.

Peiping's announcement of its latest test contains boastful comments concerning the success of the nuclear tests thus far conducted. These were called "a heavy blow to the plot of U.S. imperialism and Soviet modern revisionism which have been collaborating in a vain attempt to enforce their nuclear monopoly and sabotage the revolutionary struggles of all oppressed people and oppressed nations."

The statement then speaks of the nuclear tests as "a great encouragement to the heroic Vietnamese people who are waging the struggle against U.S. aggression."

Recent events — the mobilization of troops on the Chinese-Russian border and Peking's nuclear tests—dramatize the fact that the Asian situation could bring a larger crisis which would affect the whole world and would not necessarily be confined to military operations in South Vietnam.

Through The Years

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Am I some kind of a nut? Perhaps if I write my problem down on paper it will look so ridiculous I'll be ashamed of myself and get back to normal.

I'm Mrs. Average Housewife, married nearly 30 years. I have a wonderful family and fine husband. We have no financial problems, no in-law problem and none of the heartaches that plague most people. I should be a contented, balanced person but I think I'm crazy. Please listen to this:

A few months ago I began watching a soap opera, one of those drippy daytime things. Pretty soon I found myself looking forward to the program with great eagerness. After a few months I was completely hooked.

Last week one of the leading male characters died. I went into a depression and couldn't eat dinner. I felt as if I had lost a member of my family. My husband asked what was wrong. Naturally I didn't tell him.

Why would a normal, middle-aged woman react like this? It's been three days and I'm still depressed. Can you help me or do I need a psychoanalyst? — IDIOT BOX VICTIM.

Dear I.B.V.: Obviously you began to think of the soap opera character as a personal friend. This does not mean you are loony but it does suggest that you identified with him much too strongly.

If you still are grieving by the time this letter appears, tell yourself that when the male lead in a soap opera dies it means his agent got him a better job on Broadway — or if it's a girl she married Frank Sinatra.

Sitter's Gripe

Dear Ann: Does a baby sitter have to tell people the truth when she doesn't want to take a job?

A certain woman has called me three times in the last two weeks and I have fibbed and said I was busy, although I had nothing else to do. I dread going to that house because the children are like wild animals.

The two older boys (7 and 8 years old) fight something terrible. I don't feel it's the sitter's job to referee battles. Besides, I always end up being bitten or kicked or hit.

The youngest child is a girl 3 years old and she is not trained yet. I think she refuses to be trained just to show who is boss.

My mother says white lies are all right if they are for a good reason, like sparing someone's feelings. But I feel guilty saying I'm busy when I'm not. Would it be best to tell the woman I don't want to work for her any more because her children are like impossible? — TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES.

Dear Truth: Isn't it enough that you have been hit and bitten over there? Don't let those kids make a liar out of you, too.

Tell the woman you don't care to sit with her children because they are too difficult to control. Maybe when the mother hears the sad truth from an outsider she'll do something about it.

Confidentially

TO HURT AND BITTER: Man's capacity for cruelty to woman is matched only by her ability to remember it. Nothing is gained by picking at wounds. You merely prevent them from healing. Do yourself a favor and forgive him.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Oldest Member Of Soviet's Communist Party Claimed

MOSCOW (AP) — Yelena D. Stasova, oldest member of the Soviet Communist party and once a close associate of V.I. Lenin, is dead at 93, Tass announced Sunday.

Mrs. Stasova joined the party in 1898, worked on Lenin's revolutionary newspaper Iskra — the Spark — which he had smuggled into Russia from exile abroad, and was a secretary to leading Bolsheviks at the time of the 1917 Revolution. The Tsarist government exiled her to Siberia from 1913 to 1916 for her revolutionary work.

An obituary signed by Soviet Communist party Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, President Nikolai V. Podgorny, premier Alexei N. Kosygin and other leaders gave no indication of the date, cause or place of her death.

A top ranking committee was formed to organize her funeral, headed by Mikhail A. Suslov, a party secretary, politburo member, top ideologist and one of the country's most powerful men.

Mrs. Stasova was one of Lenin's secretaries in the early years of Communist power. In 1919 when he showed signs of bad health she pushed a resolution through the party's Central Committee ordering him to take a vacation.

She was elected to the Central Committee in 1918. She worked with the international Communist organization Comintern from 1921 to 1926, headed the International Organization of Aid to Workers from 1927 to 1938 and was editor of the magazine International Literature from 1938 to 1941.

$32 Million In 1966 Ohio Pike Record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Turnpike had a record $32 million year in 1966, which brought a high-level prediction for an early end to one of the state's financial obligations.

Turnpike Commission Chairman James W. Shocknessy predicted in his year-end report that the original $326 million in turnpike bonds could be paid off 13 years ahead of schedule, in 1979 instead of 1992. Over $17 million worth were retired in the past year, bringing the total retired to $72.2 million.

The 1966 turnpike revenue of $32 million was a record, along with the amount of bonds retired.

"The annual interest charge on the bonds as of Jan. 1, 1967, is $8,247,558, which is a reduction of $2,347,442 in the yearly interest charges prevailing before any bonds were retired," Shocknessy reported. The commission began purchasing bonds for retirement in 1961.

The chairman said 1966 turnpike traffic was the heaviest ever — almost 17 million vehicles. And he said the toll road "is more firmly integrated into the national system of interstate and defense highways than ever before" with the recent opening of its Interstate 71 interchange in Strongsville.

Trustees Agree To Attend State Event Jan. 18-21

Plans for representation at the state convention of the Ohio Trustees and Clerks Association were made during a meeting of the East Liverpool Township Trustees Friday night in the Little Building.

The convention will be held Jan. 18-21 in Columbus.

It was reported that bills amounting to $1,024 had been paid.

A motion was made to make a down payment of $2,000 on a new dumptruck to the Wimmer Motor Sales.

Richard Sanford, chairman, presided.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 13.

1 Killed, 6 Injured In One-Car Mishap

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A car carrying seven Sandusky teenagers crashed off Hall Road here late Saturday night, killing one youth and injuring all the others. Only one of the injured was hurt seriously.

The state patrol said the victim, Robert Brown, 17, died in a hospital here about two hours after the crash.

Injured the most seriously was Richard Camella, 17. He was reported in fair condition Sunday.

The other injured included the driver, David Bloomquist, 18, and Bill Deming, also 18. They were identified as Sandusky High School athletes — Bloomquist is a 6-foot-8 center on the school's varsity basketball team.

Highway Boss And Auto Industry Face Big Task

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business News Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's first highway boss and the auto industry are facing this month the difficult task of reconciling differences on how to make cars safer and how fast this can be done.

U.S. automakers, as well as foreign car producers, appear unanimous in their belief that they can not meet immediately the 23 safety standards proposed by the government in the time allotted.

Dr. William Haddon Jr., administrator of the National Safety Agency and the National Traffic Safety Act, first outlined his 23-point program last Nov. 29 and gave auto companies until Jan. 3 to comment.

His suggested program included almost every part of the car, from windshields to tires, as he took aim on his goal of cutting the nation's traffic death toll of nearly 50,000 a year.

Auto companies have deluged him with voluminous reports and technical data supporting their belief that some of his suggestions were inadvisable or premature.

The thinking of the automakers differed somewhat, but in general, they suggested to Haddon that three of the big obstacles were time, money and lack of sufficient test data.

All four U.S. firms, for example, reportedly took issue with the suggestion that the front parking lights of future autos should be 20 inches above the ground, instead of 17 as most of them have it now.

That meant only a proposed change of three inches but auto companies said this would cost them millions of dollars.

Will A. Scott, director of automotive safety for Ford Motor Co., questioned, as did other auto spokesmen, whether the industry had enough time to make any major changes in the 1968 cars which are due to hit dealer showrooms this fall.

"I do not want to quarrel with Dr. Haddon for he has a job to do and we all are working under the fact that the law was enacted too swiftly in 1966 and did not provide adequate time for adjustments," Scott said.

Haddon repeated Saturday his willingness to listen to the auto industry's arguments but he pointed out that under the law the final responsibility is his.

A main complaint in the auto industry appeared to be a belief that federal officials did not fully understand the industry's lead time problems.

General Motors, with more than 50 per cent of the auto production and sales in the United States, released its report Saturday and covered the lead time problem.

GM Vice President Harry Barr wrote:

"In evaluating proposed new safety standards, consideration must be given to whether the anticipated safety value is commensurate with the additional price the customer will have to pay.

In the case of some proposed standards, there simply is not enough lead time to meet some of the specific requirements in the total area covered."

Barr pointed out that preparations for building a new car involve detailed engineering drawings, tooling, machining, production and testing of prototype models and preparations for mass production.

This takes between 24 and 36 months.

No industry leader would discuss the financial cost of a crash program to adjust to Haddon's standards if he stands firm on all of them.

Most pointed out that it would be physically impossible at this late date to make all the changes Haddon suggested for 1968 models even if such problems as cost, availability of tooling and die equipment, and engineering and manufacturing manpower were not present.

Henry Ford II, board chairman of Ford, was among the most outspoken critics of the proposed standards as he told a mid-December news conference:

"In my personal opinion, many of the standards are arbitrary and I think they technically are not feasible. If we can not meet the final version of the standards, we will have to shut down our production lines, certain ones on certain cars, depending on what the standards might be."

Chrysler Board Chairman Lynn Townsend said the proposals "pose very serious problems for Chrysler."

GM was the first auto company to release the complete technical report delivered to Haddon in advance of his Jan. 3 deadline. Other firms, including British and Japanese automakers, said earlier they had doubts about some of the standards but their detailed reports have not been made public yet.

Haddon said in an interview that he was "not out to hurt the auto industry or any other section of the economy."

He said he had some pretty definite ideas on how the nation's traffic death toll could be cut, with his 23-point program the first step in that direction.

Danger Of Extinction

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, (AP)—The Academy of the Basque Language says the unique language is in danger of extinction unless the Spanish government does something about it. The academy has asked the Spanish Education Ministry to provide reading and writing courses in Basque in some public schools and to create a center to train teachers. The language is used by a minority of residents in the three Basque provinces of Vizcaya, Guipuzcoa and Alava.

Alliance Youth Killed, 2 Hurt In Car Crash

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — One young man was killed and two others injured early Sunday in a one-car crash on Jennings Ave. north of Alliance.

The state patrol said Arthur Allen, 19, of Alliance, a passenger in the car, was dead at the scene.

AP And Guild Extend Pact Until Jan. 7

NEW YORK (AP) — The Associated Press and the Wire Service Guild agreed Saturday night, at the request of a federal mediator, to extend their present contract until Midnight Saturday, Jan. 7. The extension came after The Associated Press made what it said was a final money offer.

The contract was scheduled to expire at midnight Saturday.

This statement was issued after a day-long negotiating session:

"The Associated Press Saturday made what it said was a final money offer to the Wire Service Guild in a session called by mediator George Papp, who directed that the details not be disclosed.

"Papp said the details of the offer may not be released as long as the parties are in closed mediation session.

"The Guild said it would analyze management's proposal and that it plans to present a counterproposal.

"The Guild and the company, at the request of the mediator, agreed to extend the present contract until Midnight Saturday, January 7.

"The contract was scheduled to expire at Midnight tonight.

"The sessions have been recessed until 10 a.m., Jan. 3."

Among other demands, the newspaper union is seeking an increase of the top minimum wage for newsmen, which now stands at $188.75 a week.

Two hundred square miles of rivers and lakes are included within Ohio's boundaries.

Army Sergeant Receives Award

Army Staff Sgt. Gerald V. McDowell, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar O. McDowell, and wife, Anne, reside on the Y. & O. Rd., has received a Certificate of Achievement award for outstanding service during an assignment with the 57th Military Police Company at the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.

He is now serving with Headquarters Company, Office of the Provost Marshal, 4th Transportation Command, in Saigon, Vietnam, where he was presented the award.

Sgt. McDowell went on active duty in 1953 and arrived overseas on his current assignment last November. He is a 1951 graduate of Louisville (Ohio) High School.

Q. — How can I eliminate the rather unpleasant odor when cooking shrimp?

A. — A stick of cinnamon dropped into the water in which you are boiling shrimp will dispel the smell and still not affect the taste.

Q. — How can I improvise a solder for mending a leak in a sprinkling can or other such article?

A. — Yellow soap pressed firmly into the leak will usually prove a good temporary substitute solder.

Q.—How can I make paint adhere readily to tinware?

A.—By use of the following method: Rub the surface of the tinware thoroughly with a piece of rough pumice stone or coarse sandpaper. Then apply a thin coat of shellac, after which the surface will take your paint very readily.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Am I some kind of a nut? Perhaps if I write my problem down on paper it will look so ridiculous I'll be ashamed of myself and get back to normal.

I'm Mrs. Average Housewife, married nearly 30 years. I have a wonderful family and fine husband. We have no financial problems, no in-law problem and none of the heartaches that plague most people. I should be a contented, balanced person but I think I'm crazy. Please listen to this:

A few months ago I began watching a soap opera, one of those drippy daytime things. Pretty soon I found myself looking forward to the program with great eagerness. After a few months I was completely hooked.

Last week one of the leading male characters died. I went into a depression and couldn't eat dinner. I felt as if I had lost a member of my family. My husband asked what was wrong. Naturally I didn't tell him.

Why would a normal, middle-aged woman react like this? It's been three days and I'm still depressed. Can you help me or do I need a psychoanalyst? — IDIOT BOX VICTIM.

Dear I.B.V.: Obviously you began to think of the soap opera character as a personal friend. This does not mean you are loony but it does suggest that you identified with him much too strongly.

If you still are grieving by the time this letter appears, tell yourself that when the male lead in a soap opera dies it means his agent got him a better job on Broadway — or if it's a girl she married Frank Sinatra.

Sitter's Gripe

Dear Ann: Does a baby sitter have to tell people the truth when she doesn't want to take a job?

A certain woman has called me three times in the last two weeks and I have fibbed and said I was busy, although I had nothing else to do. I dread going to that house because the children are like wild animals.

The two older boys (7 and 8 years old) fight something terrible. I don't feel it's the sitter's job to referee battles. Besides, I always end up being bitten or kicked or hit.

The youngest child is a girl 3 years old and she is not trained yet. I think she refuses to be trained just to show who is boss.

My mother says white lies are all right if they are for a good reason, like sparing someone's feelings. But I feel guilty saying I'm busy when I'm not. Would it be best to tell the woman I don't want to work for her any more because her children are like impossible? — TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES.

Dear Truth: Isn't it enough that you have been hit and bitten over there? Don't let those kids make a liar out of you, too.

Tell the woman you don't care to sit with her children because they are too difficult to control. Maybe when the mother hears the sad truth from an outsider she'll do something about it.

Confidentially

TO HURT AND BITTER: Man's capacity for cruelty to woman is matched only by her ability to remember it. Nothing is gained by picking at wounds. You merely prevent them from healing. Do yourself a favor and forgive him.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

$32 Million In 1966 Ohio Pike Record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Turnpike had a record $32 million year in 1966, which brought a high-level prediction for an early end to one of the state's financial obligations.

Turnpike Commission Chairman James W. Shocknessy predicted in his year-end report that the original $326 million in turnpike bonds could be paid off 13 years ahead of schedule, in 1979 instead of 1992. Over $17 million worth were retired in the past year, bringing the total retired to $72.2 million.

The 1966 turnpike revenue of $32 million was a record, along with the amount of bonds retired.

"The annual interest charge on the bonds as of Jan. 1, 1967, is $8,247,558, which is a reduction of $2,347,442 in the yearly interest charges prevailing before any bonds were retired," Shocknessy reported. The commission began purchasing bonds for retirement in 1961.

The chairman said 1966 turnpike traffic was the heaviest ever — almost 17 million vehicles. And he said the toll road "is more firmly integrated into the national system of interstate and defense highways than ever before" with the recent opening of its Interstate 71 interchange in Strongsville.

Trustees Agree To Attend State Event Jan. 18-21

Plans for representation at the state convention of the Ohio Trustees and Clerks Association were made during a meeting of the East Liverpool Township Trustees Friday night in the Little Building.

The convention will be held Jan. 18-21 in Columbus.

It was reported that bills amounting to $1,024 had been paid.

A motion was made to make a down payment of $2,000 on a new dumptruck to the Wimmer Motor Sales.

Richard Sanford, chairman, presided.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 13.

Oldest Member Of Soviet's Communist Party Claimed

MOSCOW (AP) — Yelena D. Stasova, oldest member of the Soviet Communist party and once a close associate of V.I. Lenin, is dead at 93, Tass announced Sunday.

Mrs. Stasova joined the party in 1898, worked on Lenin's revolutionary newspaper Iskra — the Spark — which he had smuggled into Russia from exile abroad, and was a secretary to leading Bolsheviks at the time of the 1917 Revolution. The Tsarist government exiled her to Siberia from 1913 to 1916 for her revolutionary work.

An obituary signed by Soviet Communist party Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, President Nikolai V. Podgorny, premier Alexei N. Kosygin and other leaders gave no indication of the date, cause or place of her death.

A top ranking committee was formed to organize her funeral, headed by Mikhail A. Suslov, a party secretary, politburo member, top ideologist and one of the country's most powerful men.

Mrs. Stasova was one of Lenin's secretaries in the early years of Communist power. In 1919 when he showed signs of bad health she pushed a resolution through the party's Central Committee ordering him to take a vacation.

She was elected to the Central Committee in 1918. She worked with the international Communist organization Comintern from 1921 to 1926, headed the International Organization of Aid to Workers from 1927 to 1938 and was editor of the magazine International Literature from 1938 to 1941.

Won't Be As Big As 1966

1967 To See More Gains In Ohio Highway System

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The new year will see more gains in Ohio's highway system, but they won't be as big as the year just passed, and the state's nation-leading road - building momentum seems in for an abrupt check.

Federal cutback in matching funds is to blame—a factor that hits Ohio in more ways than one.

Loss of federal money, loss of construction time, lost time in bid openings, all will cause delay in construction projects including completion of Ohio's interstate highway system.

The Ohio Department of Highways, in reviewing the past year and prospects for the new year, said the 1967 construction program will total $255 million plus engineering and right-of-way costs.

P. E. Masheter, highway director, said the 1967 figure would be "much less" were it not for available funds from the highway bond issue approved by voters in 1964. The state will have $100 million available for all road construction contracts from January until June, Masheter said.

The cutback affects both construction and right-of-way, but not Appalachia, junkyard or beautification projects because they are not financed through the federal Highway Trust Fund, the director said.

The trust fund is made up of highway use taxes from every state.

Masheter said aside from construction projects, his department will not be reimbursed for all of the right-of-way purchases that have been made.

"Since state funds have already been used to pay for the right-of-way," he said, "the cut back will also infringe on the amount of state funds we will have for state financed construction projects."

In 1967, about a third of Ohio's highway construction will be completely state financed. Bond money will make up 25 per cent of that figure.

In the beginning, highway officials thought bond money could be used in place of matching federal funds on interstate projects until federal money was released. But the Bureau of Public Roads recently said it will not guarantee reimbursement of any federal money to states for projects financed in that way.

In the first quarter of 1967, an estimated $21 million in contracts will be awarded. Of that total, 50 per cent will be projects on the primary road system, 25 per cent on the secondary system, and 25 per cent on urban roads.

Masheter said the cutback in federal highway funds means an actual loss of $81 million. He explained that before the cutback was made, Ohio could have expected to receive $265 million in quarterly allotments this year from the federal highway trust. Since the state is now limited to spending $184 million matching funds, Ohio will lose $81 million, or 30.6 per cent of its expected funds.

"The manner of accomplishing this cutback is unfair to Ohio since Ohio has been foremost in advancing its highway program," Masheter said. "Because Ohio has obligated more federal aid funds between July 1, 1966, and Nov. 1, 1966, than any other state, the remaining federal funds available for obligation between Nov. 1 and June 30, 1967, is reduced to $90,548,000."

He said between Nov. 1 and the time the cutback was announced, Ohio obligated another $50 million leaving only $40 million in federal matching funds available until next July.

Masheter said for that reason, no federal aid projects can be put up for bids until April.

Federal officials said the cutback was "in recognition of the need for reducing non-military federal expenditures as a contribution to the Vietnam effort and the resultant program to reduce inflationary pressures . . ."

They also said that funds deferred from past quarterly appropriations could not be used to increase Ohio's $184 million ceiling. For Ohio, that amounts to $102.5 million of appropriations not now available, Masheter said.

While Ohio is a national leader with two-thirds of its interstate system opened to traffic, officials could not say whether the cutback will affect the system's scheduled completion in 1972. So far 14 major projects totaling $69.9 million have been pushed back until after May. All were scheduled originally in January, February, or March, but now will be deferred from one to six months.

Because so many projects have been deferred, the Jan. 10 bid opening was canceled. In the Jan. 24 bid opening, 23 projects have been scheduled.

Projects deferred include: Two Toledo I - 75 projects totaling nearly two miles and costing more than $15 million; one I-77 project in Tuscarawas County costing more than $4 million; one I-80 project costing more than $6.4 million; two projects on I-270 (Columbus outerbelt); two projects on I-271 in Summit County; two I - 475 projects in Lucas County; one project on U.S. 68 in Clark County; three projects on U.S. 23 in Marion County, and one project on Ohio 7 in Jefferson County.

Ohio Traffic Toll Behind Predictions

By The Associated Press

Despite a long string of single fatality accidents, Ohio passed the midway mark of the 78-hour New Year's holiday weekend with hopes that safety officials' predicted 33-death toll would not be met.

By late Sunday, 14 persons were reported killed on Ohio roads and highways—less than half the predicted 33 lives.

The steadily mounting Ohio toll claimed two lives Friday and five more Saturday before the Sunday count began. Most victims died in single fatality accidents.

Safety officials had also predicted 33 deaths for the Christmas holiday, but watched the yuletide toll climb to 34. They warned of strict law enforcement to keep the New Year's toll below predictions.

The deaths since late Saturday:

Saturday

Laura Houck, 5, Delaware, when an auto driven by her father wrecked off U.S. 37 near Delaware.

Dewey F. England, 43, Cincinnati, in a two-car crash in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Mary Stallman, 48, Cleveland, struck by a car while standing on U.S. 21 in suburban Brecksville.

Harvey F. Goodrow, 29, Columbus, whose truck hit a utility pole in Columbus.

Sunday

Mrs. Mildred Orum, Akron, struck by a car at an Akron intersection.

Holy Man Who Fasted Since Nov. 20 Dies

AGRA, India (AP) — Hindu Holy Man Mehr Chand Pahuja, 54, who had fasted since Nov. 20 in support of Hindu demands for a nationwide ban on the slaughter of cows, died Saturday, police reported Sunday.

Pahuja died at Vrindaban, 80 miles south of New Delhi. Police made elaborate arrangements to forestall possible violence following his death.

Cows are regarded as sacred by Hindus. A number of other holy men in India are fasting on the same issue and some are reported in serious condition.

Car Kills Woman

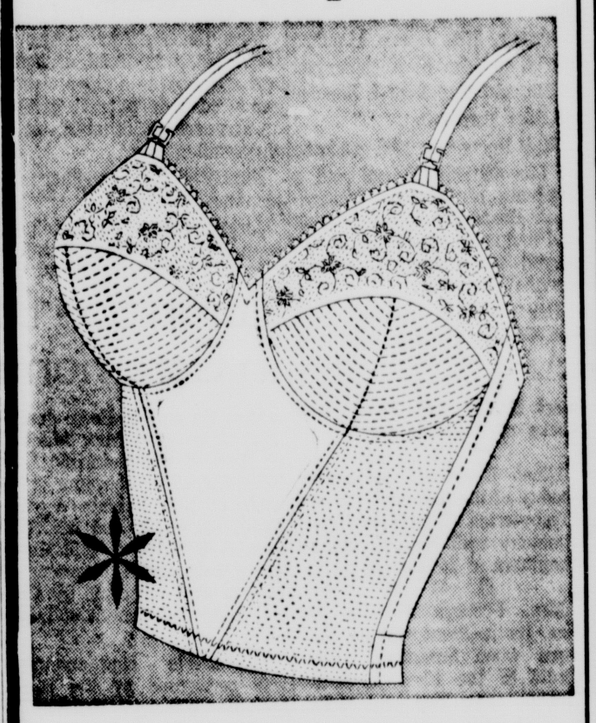

AKRON, Ohio (AP)— An Akron woman was struck and killed by a car early Sunday at the intersection of East Market and Adolph Sts. in Akron, the Ohio High Patrol said.

Killed was Mrs. Mildred Orum.

Won't Be As Big As 1966

1967 To See More Gains In Ohio Highway System

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The new year will see more gains in Ohio's highway system, but they won't be as big as the year just passed, and the state's nation-leading road - building momentum seems in for an abrupt check.

Federal cutback in matching funds is to blame—a factor that hits Ohio in more ways than one.

Loss of federal money, loss of construction time, lost time in bid openings, all will cause delay in construction projects including completion of Ohio's interstate highway system.

The Ohio Department of Highways, in reviewing the past year and prospects for the new year, said the 1967 construction program will total $255 million plus engineering and right-of-way costs.

P. E. Masheter, highway director, said the 1967 figure would be "much less" were it not for available funds from the highway bond issue approved by voters in 1964. The state will have $100 million available for all road construction contracts from January until June, Masheter said.

The cutback affects both construction and right-of-way, but not Appalachia, junkyard or beautification projects because they are not financed through the federal Highway Trust Fund, the director said.

The trust fund is made up of highway use taxes from every state.

Masheter said aside from construction projects, his department will not be reimbursed for all of the right-of-way purchases that have been made.

"Since state funds have already been used to pay for the right-of-way," he said, "the cutback will also infringe on the amount of state funds we will have for state financed construction projects."

In 1967, about a third of Ohio's highway construction will be completely state financed. Bond money will make up 25 per cent of that figure.

In the beginning, highway officials thought bond money could be used in place of matching federal funds on interstate projects until federal money was released. But the Bureau of Public Roads recently said it will not guarantee reimbursement of any federal money to states for projects financed in that way.

In the first quarter of 1967, an estimated $21 million in contracts will be awarded. Of that total, 50 per cent will be projects on the primary road system, 25 per cent on the secondary system, and 25 per cent on urban roads.

Masheter said the cutback in federal highway funds means an actual loss of $81 million. He explained that before the cutback was made, Ohio could have expected to receive $265 million in quarterly allotments this year from the federal highway trust. Since the state is now limited to spending $184 million matching funds, Ohio will lose $81 million, or 30.6 per cent of its expected funds.

"The manner of accomplishing this cutback is unfair to Ohio since Ohio has been foremost in advancing its highway program," Masheter said. "Because Ohio has obligated more federal aid funds between July 1, 1966, and Nov. 1, 1966, than any other state, the remaining federal funds available for obligation between Nov. 1 and June 30, 1967, is reduced to $90,548,000."

He said between Nov. 1 and the time the cutback was announced, Ohio obligated another $50 million leaving only $40 million in federal matching funds available until next July.

Masheter said for that reason, no federal aid projects can be put up for bids until April.

Federal officials said the cutback was "in recognition of the need for reducing non-military federal expenditures as a contribution to the Vietnam effort and the resultant program to reduce inflationary pressures . . ."

They also said that funds deferred from past quarterly appropriations could not be used to increase Ohio's $184 million ceiling. For Ohio, that amounts to $102.5 million of appropriations not now available, Masheter said.

While Ohio is a national leader with two-thirds of its interstate system opened to traffic, officials could not say whether the cutback will affect the system's scheduled completion in 1972. So far 14 major projects totaling $69.9 million have been pushed back until after May. All were scheduled originally in January, February, or March, but now will be deferred from one to six months.

Because so many projects have been deferred, the Jan. 10 bid opening was canceled. In the Jan. 24 bid opening, 23 projects have been scheduled.

Projects deferred include: Two Toledo I - 75 projects totaling nearly two miles and costing more than $15 million; one I-77 project in Tuscarawas County costing more than $4 million; one I-80 project costing more than $6.4 million; two projects on I-270 (Columbus outerbelt); two projects on I-271 in Summit County; two I - 475 projects in Lucas County; one project on U.S. 68 in Clark County; three projects on U.S. 23 in Marion County, and one project on Ohio 7 in Jefferson County.

Karen Sue Bess Marries In Ceremonies At Church

Miss Karen Sue Bess, daughteer of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell H. Bess of 1001 Township Line Rd., Wellsville, became the bride of Pvt. William A. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Williams of 1610 Maple Ave., Wellsville, the evening of Dec. 22 at 6 o'clock in the Central Methodist Church of Wellsville.

The double - ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Melville Wohrley, assisted by Jack Hampton, before an altar banked with ferns, palms, white pompons and candelabra. The family pews were marked with white satin bows. Ralph Falconer presented a half - hour recital of organ music.

THE BRIDE was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of white satin and Chantilly lace designed with a bell-shaped skirt, scoop neckline and long, pointed sleeves.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls and sequins. She carried a white Bible, topped with a white orchid accented with lily of the valley and satin streamers.

Pvt. Sterling K. Hanselman served as best man. Ushers

MRS. WILLIAM WILLIAMS

were Bob Duffield and Tim Russell.

The mother of the bride chose a three-piece winter white ensemble with black and the bridegroom's mother, a blue sheath dress. Blue and white carnation corsages and black accessories complemented their attire.

A RECEPTION for 50 followed at the Wellsville Jaycee Hall where the bride's table was centered with a three-tier cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple. The cake was encircled with fern and blue and white carnations.

Aides were Mrs. Jean Cupp, Mrs. Wynema Parker and Mrs. Kathryn Beaver, aunt of the bride. Miss Mary Ann Lanam registered guests and Mrs. Mary Lou Moore, the gifts.

The newlyweds are graduates of Wellsville High School, the bride in 1966 and her husband, in 1965. She is employed at the Household Finance Co. in East Liverpool. The bridegroom will report to Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.

How Can I?
By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I deal with white stains left on furniture surfaces by water or alcohol?

A. — One quick and easy method is to rub over the stains with a damp cloth that has been dipped into cigarette ashes, the ashes acting as a sort of pumice. Rub gently until the stains disappear, wipe with a clean damp cloth, then apply your favorite furniture polish or wax.

Q. — How can I make a better job of mending a tear in a net curtain?

A. — A coat of colorless fingernail polish applied over the tear, after mending it, makes a perfect finish. Press the frayed ends together until the polish dries. Iron the curtain carefully, avoiding the mending area.

Q. — What can I do if I happen to need an extra-large piece of wax paper, and have only a few smaller pieces?

A. — You can seal these pieces together with a hot iron.

A fish and potato stew is particularly delicious when tomatoes are used as part, or all, of the liquid.

1,523 Names Removed

7,048 Qualified For Voting Here

East Liverpool is beginning 1967 with 7,048 qualified voters after the County Election Board removed the names of 1,523 in its annual year-end check for failure to vote at least once in the preceding two years.

East Liverpool's registration stood at 8,348 on Jan. 1, 1966, following removal of 396 in the annual check. There were 8,571 qualified for the general election last November.

State law makes the yearly check mandatory in all subdivisions where voter registration is required. East Liverpool is the only community in Columbiana County where voters must register.

POSTCARD notices were mailed Saturday to all the disqualified electors, advising them of the board's action. The form includes an addressed, postage-paid card which the voters may use to reinstate their registration by mail.

The form allows a voter to become qualified again without the necessity for a trip to the board's downtown office. The elector need only enter his name and address and affix his signature. Until the law was changed a few years ago by the state legislature, electors could reinstate their names only by a personal visit to the board's office.

The notice warns that the mail reinstatement runs out in 30 days — on Feb. 1. After that, a voter will be required to visit the office in person to have his name entered on the list again.

The drop to 7,048 is another step in a gradual downward trend in the number of city voters that began shortly after the end of World War II. The city's all-time peak registration was 12,642 for the November 1340 presidential election.

Since 1945, there has been a continual, gradual decline, blamed on migration to the new residential districts immediately outside the city. The residents are not lost to Greater East Liverpool, however, as most have occupied new homes in Liverpool and St. Clair Townships.

THE YEAR-END check eliminated 332 voters' names in the First Ward, 479 in the Second, 506 in the Third and 496 in the Fourth.

The Second Ward remains the city's largest, with 2,415 electors. The First has 1,677, the Third, 1,195 and the Fourth, 1,761.

First Ward: A, 28 canceled and 243 remaining; B, 54 and 300; C, 39 and 134; D, 48 and 304; E, 57 and 254; F, 34 and 125; G, 31 and 210, and H, 11 and 107.

Second Ward: A, 65 and 191; B, 54 and 321; C, 58 and 260; D, 61 and 238; E, 47 and 347; F, 40 and 227; G, 28 and 173; H, 44 and 207; I, 47 and 209, and J, 35 and 242.

Third Ward: A, 46 and 196; B, 46 and 167; C, 57 and 194; D, 50 and 230; E, 37 and 168; F, 21 and 107, and G, 49 and 223.

Fourth Ward: A, 37 and 168; B, 54 and 245; C, 27 and 129; D, 50 and 144; E, 42 and 182; F, 44 and 223; G, 42 and 168; H, 63 and 339, and I, 47 and 163.

Boy Charged With Slaying Of 3 In Texas

ORANGE, Tex. (AP) — A slender 14-year-old boy was charged Sunday with rising early New Year's Day to kill his father, grandmother and his father's fiancee and knife in the back a teen-age pal who tried to stop him.

Ronnie Lee Ozio, a high school sophomore, was arrested 4½ hours after the slayings when he returned to his father's blood-smeared and bullet-pocked plush apartment.

Relatives described the 90-pound, 5-foot Ozio as an avid hunter who had been upset in recent weeks but who nevertheless showed affection toward the three persons he is charged with slaying.

They are John Allen Ozio, about 40; Victoria Ozio, about 80; and Bobby Mayberry, 35, who with her two children was visiting the Ozios for the weekend after Ronnie spent the Christmas holidays with her family in Foreman, Ark.

Ozio and Mrs. Mayberry planned to marry soon.

Mrs. Ozio and Mrs. Mayberry were struck many times with .22 caliber rifle and pistol bullets as they slept in a double bed. Ozio, sleeping on a pallet, was shot several times in the head and a hunting arrow was plunged so deep in his chest the tip was shattered.

Craig Mayberry, 16, the son of the dead woman, sobbed to officers that "I tried to stop him. I tried to stop him."

It was Craig who staggered out of the apartment with a 10-inch butcher knife imbedded halfway into his back and summoned neighbors to the 4 a.m. tragedy. Craig was listed in critical condition after surgery at a Beaumont hospital.

Craig's grappling with the slayer apparently saved from injury Craig's sister, Debi Mayberry, 14, who awakened at her mother's screams.

She said she saw Ronnie "killing everyone. At first I thought it was a joke but then I knew they were really dying."

Ronnie's parents were divorced. His mother is Mrs. Freta Laura Ozio, a schoolteacher at nearby Groves, Tex. His father was reported to have taught school in Dallas recently but returned this fall to Orange to become a carpenter for Rurst Engineering Co.

Debi said she heard no arguments between Ronnie and his relatives or the visitors. She said the Ozios and Mayberrys spent New Year's Eve playing chess and checkers.

Ozio was charged in juvenile court before Dist. Judge Eugene R. Hoyt on a complaint of murder with malice aforethought.

After being advised of his legal rights, he was held for more questioning by the sheriff and Dist. Atty. Roy S. Wingate.

Solon Driver Charged In Wellsville Hit-Skip

A hearing is scheuled Tuesday at Wellsville for Paul Long of Solon, charged with leaving the scene of an accident on 17th St., Wellsville, Saturday night.

He was apprehended by Wellsville police at 11th and Commerce Sts. after his car reportedly struck a parked auto owned by Charles Fluharty of 18th St. Heights. The mishap occurred at 9:55. Damage was minor, officers reported.

It takes up to 60,000 gallons of water to produce a single ton of steel.

Officer Cites Driver, 51, In 3-Way Crash

A 51-year-old motorist was cited by police Saturday afternoon after a three-way collision on Dresden Ave. 800 feet north of Moore St. which injured two persons.

The mishap involved a halted 1965 four - door sedan driven by Donald Leon Boso, 58, of 1006 Dresden Ave., a stopped 1961 two - door sedan operated by William J. Davis, 18, of 1745 Idaho Ave. and a 1963 two-door sedan driven by Harold R. Maylone, 51, of 1073 Dresden Ave.

Maylone, a member of City Council, was cited on a charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Police said Boso reported he would see a physician about his injuries. His daughter, Diana Boso, 10, a passenger, suffered a possible whiplash injury, officers said.

The collision was timed at 12:15. Boso halted to make a left turn and Davis halted behind him, officers said. As Maylone rounded a turn, he looked away from the street and when he looked back at the roadway, he saw the two cars halted ahead, officers said. Maylone was unable to halt in time to avoid hitting the rear of the Davis car, which then hit the Boso auto in the rear, officers said.

A Salineville man escaped injury Sunday at 4:15 a.m. when his auto crashed into an embankment on the River Rd. 50 feet west of State St., police said.

The crash damaged the front of a 1964 model car driven by Ernest Schneider, 61, of Post Office Box 94, Salineville.

Schneider told Patrolman Jack Strobel he pulled onto the River Rd. from the underpass at Ralston's Crossing. His auto struck a bump, which caused him to lose control, he said.

Minor damage was reported in a collision Saturday at 12:30 p.m. at Market and 5th Sts., police said.

The mishap involved a 1959 auto driven by Mrs. Essie Blissett, 34, of 382 Ohio Ave., Midland, and a 1962 model car operated by Joe J. Mitchell, 37, of 1207 St. Clair Ave.

Mrs. Blessett told Patrolman Charles Winters she was driving west on W. 5th St., using the right-hand lane and intending to turn right onto Market St.

But she decided to continue straight through the intersection and pulled into the left lane, colliding with Mitchell's car.

During Holiday Weekend

Theft, Vandalism Series Probed By City Officers

A long series of petty theft and vandalism incidents was investigated by East Liverpool police in the first two days of the New Year's holiday weekend.

Leah Shaw of R.D. 1, operator of the Windsor Beauty Shop in a second - floor location at 607 Dresden Ave., told police Saturday a green metal box containing $5 in change and $10 to $15 in $1 bills was stolen from the shop some time between 7 p.m. Friday and 9:25 a.m. Saturday. She said the thief may have entered with a key, as no sign of forcible entry was found.

FLOYD GALLAGHER, 16, of 822 Daisy Ln. told police two men took $65 from him in a strongarm robbery Saturday at 5 p.m. in Peach Alley near W. 4th St. Gallagher said the men beat him and then took the money — three $20 bills and a $5 bill. He told officers he will file charges if the two are apprehended.

Mrs. Charles McGraw of 2509 Woodbine Ave. told officers her purse containing $15 to $25 in currency and 14 Kennedy 50-cent pieces was stolen from her car about 6:10 p.m. Saturday when she parked at E. 6th St. and Broadway to use a public telephone booth. She said the purse also contained makeup, jewelry and other items.

James Schneider of 834 Riverview St. told officers his 1965 model auto was damaged by vandals while parked outside his home about 2 a.m. Sunday.

Schneider said he heard a noise and went outside to investigate. He saw several youths tampering with his auto, but they jumped into another car and fled as he approached, he said.

Schneider said he discovered at daylight that the vandals had broken the radio antenna, fired three BB's through the windshield, punctured the left tire and broke an emblem on his auto.

Patrolman Jack Strobel, on routine patrol early Sunday, discovered that vandals had hurled stones through two plate glass windows approximately 4-x-8-feet at the Econ-O-Wash Laundry on State St., officers said.

CLYDE SMITH of 712 Morton St. told police Sunday afternoon a side view mirror was broken off his car Saturday night or Sunday while the vehicle was parked at his home. James Adkins of 1022 Ambrose Ave. said a radio antenna was broken off his 1964 model car while it was parked at his home Saturday night.

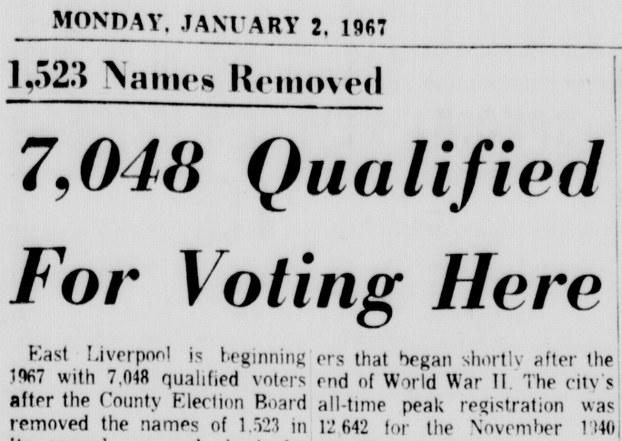

Patrolman Orin C. Smith, on cruiser patrol Sunday afternoon, discovered that vandals had thrown stones through several large windows on the Maple St. side of the Garfield School.

Mrs. Grace Wedgewood of 533½ Mulberry St. told officers Sunday afternoon a window was broken Saturday night or Sunday morning in the second floor of a vacant home at 530 Maple St., which she owns. A stone found inside the home apparently was used to break the window, officers said.

Mrs. Nellie Houser of 1736 Etruria St. told police Saturday three panes of glass in an enclosed rear porch at her home were broken by BB's sometime between Tuesday and Saturday.

Lewis Chambers of 133 W. 4th St. reported to police Saturday that a 12-inch portable television set was stolen from his auto between Dec. 24 and Friday. He said the set may have been stolen while he was in Cleveland or West Middlesex, Pa.

Currency of the United States acquired the name of "greenbacks" because of the green printing on the reverse of the notes.

1,523 Names Removed

7,048 Qualified For Voting Here

East Liverpool is beginning 1967 with 7,048 qualified voters after the County Election Board removed the names of 1,523 in its annual year-end check for failure to vote at least once in the preceding two years.

East Liverpool's registration stood at 8,348 on Jan. 1, 1966, following removal of 296 in the annual check. There were 8,571 qualified for the general election last November.

State law makes the yearly check mandatory in all subdivisions where voter registration is required. East Liverpool is the only community in Columbiana County where voters must register.

POSTCARD notices were mailed Saturday to all the disqualified electors, advising them of the board's action. The form includes an addressed, postage-paid card which the voters may use to reinstate their registration by mail.

The form allows a voter to become qualified again without the necessity for a trip to the board's downtown office. The elector need only enter his name and address and affix his signature. Until the law was changed a few years ago by the state legislature, electors could reinstate their names only by a personal visit to the board's office.

The notice warns that the mail reinstatement runs out in 30 days — on Feb. 1. After that, a voter will be required to visit the office in person to have his name entered on the list again.

The drop to 7,048 is another step in a gradual downward trend in the number of city voters that began shortly after the end of World War II. The city's all-time peak registration was 12,642 for the November 1940 presidential election.

Since 1945, there has been a continual, gradual decline, blamed on migration to the new residential districts immediately outside the city. The residents are not lost to Greater East Liverpool, however, as most have occupied new homes in Liverpool and St. Clair Townships.

THE YEAR-END check eliminated 332 voters' names in the First Ward, 479 in the Second, 506 in the Third and 406 in the Fourth.

The Second Ward remains the city's largest, with 2,415 electors. The First has 1,677, the Third, 1,195 and the Fourth, 1,761.

Fird Ward: A, 28 canceled and 243 remaining; B, 54 and 300; C, 39 and 134; D, 48 and 304; E, 57 and 254; F, 34 and 125; G, 31 and 210, and H, 11 and 107.

Second Ward: A, 65 and 191; B, 54 and 321; C, 58 and 260; D, 61 and 238; E, 47 and 347; F, 40 and 227; G, 28 and 173; H, 44 and 207; I, 47 and 209, and J, 35 and 242.

Third Ward: A, 46 and 106; B, 46 and 167; C, 57 and 194; D, 50 and 230; E, 37 and 168; F, 21 and 107, and G, 49 and 223.

Fourth Ward: A, 37 and 168; B, 54 and 245; C, 27 and 129; D, 50 and 144; E, 42 and 182; F, 44 and 223; G, 42 and 168; H, 63 and 339, and I, 47 and 163.

Boy Charged With Slaying Of 3 In Texas

ORANGE, Tex. (AP) — A slender 14-year-old boy was charged Sunday with rising early New Year's Day to kill his father, grandmother and his father's fiancee and knife in the back a teen-age pal who tried to stop him.

Ronnie Lee Ozio, a high school sophomore, was arrested 4½ hours after the slayings when he returned to his father's blood-smeared and bullet-pocked plush apartment.

Relatives described the 90-pound, 5-foot Ozio as an avid hunter who had been upset in recent weeks but who nevertheless showed affection toward the three persons he is charged with slaying.

They are John Allen Ozio, about 40; Victoria Ozio, about 80; and Bobby Mayberry, 35, who with her two children was visiting the Ozios for the weekend after Ronnie spent the Christmas holidays with her family in Foreman, Ark.

Mrs. Ozio and Mrs. Mayberry were struck many times with .22 caliber rifle and pistol bullets as they slept in a double bed. Ozio, sleeping on a pallet, was shot several times in the head and a hunting arrow was plunged so deep in his chest the tip was shattered.

Craig Mayberry, 16, the son of the dead woman, sobbed to officers that "I tried to stop him. I tried to stop him."

It was Craig who staggered out of the apartment with a 10-inch butcher knife imbedded halfway into his back and summoned neighbors to the 4 a.m. tragedy. Craig was listed in critical condition after surgery at a Beaumont hospital.

She said she saw Ronnie "killing everyone. At first I thought it was a joke but then I knew they were really dying."

Ronnie's parents were divorced. His mother is Mrs. Freta Laura Ozio, a schoolteacher at nearby Groves, Tex. His father was reported to have taught school in Dallas recently but returned this fall to Orange to become a carpenter for Rurst Engineering Co.

Debi said she heard no arguments between Ronnie and his relatives or the visitors. She said the Ozios and Mayberrys spent New Year's Eve playing chess and checkers.

More Tips Are Offered On Finishing Of Wood

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Prediction: The following information about the application of lacquer with a brush will bring some letters from professional wood finishers who believe that lacquer can be applied properly only with a sprayer.

It happens every time.

This is the advance reply:

A good lacquer finish can be obtained with a brush if a "brushing" lacquer is used; if it is thinned at least 50 per cent with lacquer thinner; if it is applied with broad strokes; if no attempt is made to go over the same area twice; if several thin coats rather than one or two thick coats are put on; and if a little practicing is done first on scrap wood until the knack is acquired.

Each of those points is important. But none is more important than the advice not to go over the same area twice.

That's because lacquer dries so quickly. In fact, the drying begins the moment the lacquer is applied. Thus, you can not go back and brush out a section you thought did not come out exactly right—even if you do it within a few seconds after the application.

Try it and you'll get a botched - up result, caused by the action of the new lacquer on the coat that so quickly has begun to set.

To avoid trouble, brush quickly and surely, with no attempt to return to any area. The next coat will take care of a tiny spot you may have missed, because each application sinks into the previous one rather than resting on it.

A very light sanding between coats is our recommendation, although there is one school of thought (in wood finishing, there is always more than one school of thought) which believes that only the last coat of lacquer should be sanded.

Lacquer does not pick up dust as much as does varnish, for instance. Also, several coats can be applied in a single day.

While on the subject of lacquer and varnish, the latter can be applied over the former, but the former cannot be applied over the latter.

Never mind trying to figure that out. It merely means that you can apply varnish over lacquer, but you can not apply lacquer over varnish. The thinner used in lacquer has a tendency to lift the varnish, much in the same manner as varnish remover.

Tools Are Always Welcome To The Home Handy Man

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Undoubtedly there are projects around the house that will be easier to complete with power tools.

New and improved portable power tools are not terribly expensive and will pay for themselves in increased efficiency and accuracy.

For the handy man who owns power tools there still may be items he doesn't have, newer models that are vast improvements over the ones he bought years back or accessories that will make his tools far more useful.

FOR THE man who doesn't have one, the most welcome gift is likely to be an electric drill. Over the years the most popular size has been the quarter-inch model, but there has been a recent trend to the heftier three-eighth-inch model.

Drills that you simply started and stopped have given way to more versatile tools with variable speeds.

Accessories that broaden the use of the drill allow it to double as many tools. If accessories are in mind, then the heavier three-eighth-inch model is the better buy because of its greater power.

Drills are available with accessories in kit form; a good idea since everything is available at once and you will have items designed to work well together.

Though sanding disks are among the more popular attachments for the drill, there comes a time when something more than occasional and often rough sanding is required.

For refinishing furniture, for example, the rotary movement of the revolving disk will leave marks. For the handy man who must do any amount of sanding an electric sander is a very useful item. These are portable, vary in size and come in a wide price range. Some of these come in kit forms with assorted sandpapers.

Least expensive — though the range is wide — is the orbital motion or straight-line sanders. Much higher in price, bigger and heavier are the belt sanders for use on large jobs.

A PORTABLE electric tool that has come a long way in the last few years is the saber saw or jig saw.

It cuts metal and plastics as well as wood, starts its own hole in the middle of a panel, can go around corners, cut circles, work in tight places. Blades are cheap and easily interchangeable.

They vary in size and cost and the heaviest of them will handle lumber as big as 2-by-4. Some come with ripping guides and circle cutting attachments and almost all have tilting shoes or base plates so they can cut an angle.

If you know that a major project is planned, such as finishing an attic or basement or construction of a garage, then a circular saw would be more suitable for the heavier work. Portable electric saws can save many man hours and offer an advantage over the stationary table saw in that they can be taken to the job.

There are other tools to choose from, of course. All sorts of hand tools if he doesn't have them. Propane torches, electric soldering guns, wrench sets, electric grinders for sharpening tools, paint sprays and on and on.

Buy a quality tool. It will last for years and, will give dependable service. Buy brands for which you can buy parts and get service.

Red-Hot Fight Shapes Up On Steel Orders

CLEVELAND (AP)—The new year will bring more uncertainties for the steel industry than it has experienced in several years, but there will be no letup in capital spending, Steel Magazine said today.

Following in the wake of a record production of 134.2 million tons last year, 1967 will bring tight money, restrictive tax policies, battles for steel orders and possible rising steel prices, the metalworking weekly said.

"The battle for orders will get progressively hotter as U.S. mills put new facilities into use, foreign producers strive to boost their export sales and makers of nonmetallics continue to chip away at steel's traditional markets," the magazine said.

Steel also said that "steel users will convert surplus inventories to cash and rely on mills for quick delivery."

Close to $2 billion will be spent "for facilities that expand capacity, improve product quality and cut labor costs," the magazine said.

"It will be a year of rising costs and, for many metalworkers, shrinking profits," Steel said. "Since productivity gains aren't likely to offset increases in employment costs, steelmakers will have to consider protecting profits by raising prices. They may act selectively, as they did last year, but they'll be restrained by mounting competitive pressures."

Readily available steel products from mills in 1967 will include large bars, forging quality bars, wide plates, wide flange beams, railroad items, vacuum processed steels, high strength steels and stainless specialties.

"Most of the major markets for steel will be as strong this year as they were in 1966," Steel said, with the possible exceptions of the auto and private housing industries.

Military spending is expected to increase and "largely offset reduced demand from makers of consumer durables," Steel said.

Steel's estimated weekly ingot production in the period ending Dec. 31 is 2,377,000, increasing the year's total to 134.2 million tons, some two per cent above the 1965 record output of 131.5 million tons.

Heavy scrap is unchanged in its third week at $27.50 a gross ton, Steel said.

More Tips Are Offered On Finishing Of Wood

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Prediction: The following information about the application of lacquer with a brush will bring some letters from professional wood finishers who believe that lacquer can be applied properly only with a sprayer.

It happens every time.

This is the advance reply:

A good lacquer finish can be obtained with a brush if a "brushing" lacquer is used; if it is thinned at least 50 per cent with lacquer thinner; if it is applied with broad strokes; if no attempt is made to go over the same area twice; if several thin coats rather than one or two thick coats are put on; and if a little practicing is done first on scrap wood until the knack is acquired.

Each of those points is important. But none is more important than the advice not to go over the same area twice.

That's because lacquer dries so quickly. In fact, the drying begins the moment the lacquer is applied. Thus, you can not go back and brush out a section you thought did not come out exactly right—even if you do it within a few seconds after the application.

Try it and you'll get a botched - up result, caused by the action of the new lacquer on the coat that so quickly has begun to set.

To avoid trouble, brush quickly and surely, with no attempt to return to any area. The next coat will take care of a tiny spot you may have missed, because each application sinks into the previous one rather than resting on it.

A very light sanding between coats is our recommendation, although there is one school of thought (in wood finishing, there is always more than one school of thought) which believes that only the last coat of lacquer should be sanded.

Lacquer does not pick up dust as much as does varnish, for instance. Also, several coats can be applied in a single day.

While on the subject of lacquer and varnish, the latter can be applied over the former, but the former cannot be applied over the latter.

Never mind trying to figure that out. It merely means that you can apply varnish over lacquer, but you can not apply lacquer over varnish. The thinner used in lacquer has a tendency to lift the varnish, much in the same manner as varnish remover.

Tools Are Always Welcome To The Home Handy Man

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Undoubtedly there are projects around the house that will be easier to complete with power tools.

New and improved portable power tools are not terribly expensive and will pay for themselves in increased efficiency and accuracy.

For the handy man who owns power tools there still may be items he doesn't have, newer models that are vast improvements over the ones he bought years back or accessories that will make his tools far more useful.

FOR THE man who doesn't have one, the most welcome gift is likely to be an electric drill. Over the years the most popular size has been the quarter-inch model, but there has been a recent trend to the heftier three-eighth-inch model.

Drills that you simply started and stopped have given way to more versatile tools with variable speeds.

Accessories that broaden the use of the drill allow it to double as many tools. If accessories are in mind, then the heavier three-eighth-inch model is the better buy because of its greater power.

Drills are available with accessories in kit form; a good idea since everything is available at once and you will have items designed to work well together.

Though sanding disks are among the more popular attachments for the drill, there comes a time when something more than occasional and often rough sanding is required.

For refinishing furniture, for example, the rotary movement of the revolving disk will leave marks. For the handy man who must do any amount of sanding an electric sander is a very useful item. These are portable, vary in size and come in a wide price range. Some of these come in kit forms with assorted sandpapers.

Least expensive — though the range is wide — is the orbital motion or straight-line sanders. Much higher in price, bigger and heavier are the belt sanders for use on large jobs.

A PORTABLE electric tool that has come a long way in the last few years is the saber saw or jig saw.

It cuts metal and plastics as well as wood, starts its own hole in the middle of a panel, can go around corners, cut circles, work in tight places. Blades are cheap and easily interchangeable.

They vary in size and cost and the heaviest of them will handle lumber as big as 2-by-4. Some come with ripping guides and circle cutting attachments and almost all have tilting shoes or base plates so they can cut an angle.

If you know that a major project is planned, such as finishing an attic or basement or construction of a garage, then a circular saw would be more suitable for the heavier work. Portable electric saws can save many man hours and offer an advantage over the stationary table saw in that they can be taken to the job.

There are other tools to choose from, of course. All sorts of hand tools if he doesn't have them. Propane torches, electric soldering guns, wrench sets, electric grinders for sharpening tools, paint sprays and on and on.

Buy a quality tool. It will last for years and, will give dependable service. Buy brands for which you can buy parts and get service.

Red-Hot Fight Shapes Up On Steel Orders

CLEVELAND (AP)—The new year will bring more uncertainties for the steel industry than it has experienced in several years, but there will be no letup in capital spending, Steel Magazine said today.

Following in the wake of a record production of 134.2 million tons last year, 1967 will bring tight money, restrictive tax policies, battles for steel orders and possible rising steel prices, the metalworking weekly said.

"The battle for orders will get progressively hotter as U.S. mills put new facilities into use, foreign producers strive to boost their export sales and makers of nonmetallics continue to chip away at steel's traditional markets," the magazine said.

Steel also said that "steel users will convert surplus inventories to cash and rely on mills for quick delivery."

Close to $2 billion will be spent "for facilities that expand capacity, improve product quality and cut labor costs," the magazine said.

"It will be a year of rising costs and, for many metalworkers, shrinking profits," Steel said. "Since productivity gains aren't likely to offset increases in employment costs, steelmakers will have to consider protecting profits by raising prices. They may act selectively, as they did last year, but they'll be restrained by mounting competitive pressures."

Readily available steel products from mills in 1967 will include large bars, forging quality bars, wide plates, wide flange beams, railroad items, vacuum processed steels, high strength steels and stainless specialties.

"Most of the major markets for steel will be as strong this year as they were in 1966," Steel said, with the possible exceptions of the auto and private housing industries.

Military spending is expected to increase and "largely offset reduced demand from makers of consumer durables," Steel said.

Steel's estimated weekly ingot production in the period ending Dec. 31 is 2,377,000, increasing the year's total to 134.2 million tons, some two per cent above the 1965 record output of 131.5 million tons.

Heavy scrap is unchanged in its third week at $27.50 a gross ton, Steel said.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN HORN

Ford's New Look

When the Ford Foundation last summer disclosed its radical communications plan—to establish a non-commercial domestic satellite exclusively for television use and to surcharge commercial television in order to initiate a non-commercial interconnected network—the effect was effervescent as champagne.

Some parties — the National Education Television (NET) network, for instance—greeted the Ford proposal, reportedly the creation of former CBS News president Fred W. Friendly, with almost intoxicated jubilation. Others—the Communications Satellite Corporation (COMSAT) and the common carriers—reacted like drinkers who became morose under the influence.

Now the hangover period has set in.

THE FIRST FILING of comment on the Ford plan and related matters before the Federal Communications Commission is over. Another is set for Feb. 1. Before that—within two weeks, it's expected—the Carnegie Commission on Educational Television will report out its findings.

Meanwhile the Ford Foundation has pulled another surprise.

It has allocated $10 million for a show-me experiment that will link educational stations via overland connections to carry a long Sunday night series of news and comment originating in institutions of higher learning. Columbia, where Friendly is a professor in the Graduate School of Journalism, will be the flagship university.

But the time for—and the shock of—surprises is over. The hour for sober re-evaluation is at hand.

On the basis of the Dec. 16 FCC rulings, the Ford plan has lost both technical and financial ground.

COSMAT claims that its multi-purpose system—to cover telephone and telegram communications and data transmission as well as television—will offer greater economies than the TV-only satellite under the Ford hood.

THE QUASI-PUBLIC body also contends it is the only entity with current congressional authorization to operate communications satellites and that only Congress—not the FCC—can designate another authority in the domestic field.

It further maintains that the creation and financing of a new non-commercial network is a national decision for congressional and presidential action and out of FCC jurisdiction.

These unrefuted arguments have gained strength over the last five months since the first Ford revelation.

On the economic front, the Ford Foundation trimmed its estimate of annual network satellite savings (over current landline tolls) by more than $10 million, acknowledged that a much-higher annual sum will be needed by non-commercial television ($200 million), and suggested that taxation or federal subsidy would be required.

These were serious jokers in the Ford hand. Who likes more taxes?

THE UNUSUALLY QUIET commercial networks—only ABC was vocal in the defense of its original proposal to fly its own communications kite and give NET a free ride—were in the enviable position of not lifting a hand but having their opponent knock himself out shadowboxing.

Even more serious was the division now arising like a miasma from the swamp of conflicting non-commercial educational-television interests.

There is need for an alternative network system—non-commercial vs. commercial — in American television. But neither the American public, which already has invested millions in sets, nor the profitable commercial networks, satisfied with the status quo, have appetite to pay for it.

THERE IS NEED for solid, steady financing of non-commercial educational television, now inadequately tied together by frayed shoestrings in this country, on both network and local-station level.

By ignoring local stations in its original network proposal, by snubbing the existing non-commercial network (NET), and by now proposing to divide that network by forming a new alliance (in effect, a new network) with NET's university stations, the Ford Foundaton has split the non-commercial, which is to say the educational, television world into an ineffectual camp at odds with one another more than with its antagonists.

At this juncture, it appears that only Congress and the President—by dint of determination, hard work, and lots of somebody's money—will be able to untangle the can of worms the Ford Foundation has opened.

5 Arrested For Burning Of Crosses

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Five persons, including a state penitentiary guard, were arrested in Richmond and Henrico County Saturday night and Sunday on charges of burning crosses illegally on public property.

The arrests were the first since Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. signalled a crackdown on cross-burners Dec. 8 by posting a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of such offenders.

Henrico County police arrested the penitentiary guard, Woodford David Taylor, 26, and a second man, Paul C. Pitts Jr., 21, both of Richmond, after a cross-burning at 11:50 p.m. Saturday at the entrance to the all-white Fox Hill apartments in suburban Lakeside.

Less than 45 minutes later, Richmond police took two men and a woman into custody after a cross had been burned near an auto repair shop in a business section in Richmond's West End.

The three were Joe Junior Sammon, 33, of Rt. 3, Glen Allen; Wilson Ralph Price, 30, and his wife, Mrs. Nannie Jane Price, 27, of Henrico.

All the men arrested were charged with burning crosses illegally on public property without consent of the property owner. Mrs. Price was charged with being an accessory.

Penalty for conviction on such a charge can be one to five years in prison, or a $500 fine and 12 months imprisonment.

Godwin, in a move aimed at curbing a resurgence of Ku Klux Klan activity in Virginia, said in a speech Dec. 8 that the flaming cross "is a symbol of terror which must be wiped out."

That same night a cross was burned at the rear of the governor's mansion here, but the culprits have not been found.

Police said Sunday they did not know whether the Henrico County and Richmond City cross-burnings Saturday night and Sunday morning were connected or whether any of those arrested were Klan members.

City Hospital Treats 17 In Emergencies

A child hurt in a fall from a tricycle and a woman hurt on glass were among 17 area residents treated at City Hospital over the weekend.

Eric Lato, son of Louis Lato of 165½ Pennsylvania Ave., Chester, received a cut on the forehead in a fall from a tricycle Sunday.

Mrs. Ralph Copenhaver of 1116 Jennings Ave. was treated yesterday for a cut of the right foot received on glass.

Timothy Dalrymple of 2153 Harvey Ave. received a cut on the scalp in a fall.

Treated Saturday were Mrs. Ruth Riley of 242 Church Ln., abrasions of the elbow in a fall on the street; Catherine Vodrey, daughter of Jackman Vodrey of Park Blvd., a cut on the forehead in a fall.

Frederick Lightfoot, son of Arthur Lightfoot of 907 Oak St., injury to the right ankle in a fall while playing basketball; Arthur Porter, son of Carl Porter of Lisbon R.D. 3, a cut on the left ear when bitten by his dog.

William Jackson of 1099 Erie St., a cut on the cheek in a fall; Lawrence Mick, of 320 9th St., Wellsville, a bruised wrist in a fall.

Mrs. Edith Harper of Salineville R.D. 1, bruises of the wrist in a fall; Donald Wilson, son of James Wilson of 531 Lisbon Rd., Wellsville, bruises of the chest and nose when an auto slipped from a jack onto him.

John Cooper, son of Ray Cooper of Chester R.D. 1, a puncture wound of the forehead in a fall down cellar steps; Richard Watson, son of Jack Watson of 9th Ave., LaCroft, a fractured right arm in a fall at home.

Home In Lisbon Area Damaged By Flames

LISBON — Fire blamed on a cracked chimney burned a kitchen wall and rafters Saturday morning at the Elwood Barber residence on the new Elkton Rd., east of here.

Lisbon volunteer firemen extinguished the blaze, caused by a coal heating stove in the kitchen. The chimney was outside against the house. Barber said the loss is covered by insurance.

Rescue Vessels Save All But 5 Of 50 Seamen

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The Coast Guard reported Sunday rescue vessels apparently have saved all but five of an estimated 50 seamen who were missing after the sinking Saturday of a Soviet refrigerator ship in the icy Bering Sea.

More than a score of Soviet fishing vessels were reported taking part in the search, along with the Coast Guard cutter Confidence and a Coast Guard rescue plane from Kodiak.

About 50 men were reported missing Saturday night after the 239-foot ship, identified only as "Refrigerator 10," radioed an SOS, saying she had a hole in the engine room and was sinking 35 miles north of Unimak.

The Coast Guard said details of what happened are lacking because of the language barrier between its rescue personnel and the commander of a Soviet fishing fleet of about 50 vessels in the area.

Most of the sunken ship's 100-man crew apparently was picked up by other Soviet vessels in the area, the Coast Guard said. Most of those reported missing Saturday night are believed to have been rescued by the Soviet fleet command ship Suzdal.

The Confidence and Coast Guard search plane were sent to aid in the hunt early Sunday at the request of the fishing fleet's commander, who has not been identified.

The Coast Guard said a plane is standing by at Kodiak with medical supplies and personnel if needed.

The Soviet fleet has been fishing for king crab and bottom fish in the North Pacific, off Alaska, and off the Washington and Oregon coasts for months.

Red China's 5th Blast Adds Pressure To LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist China's fifth nuclear blast in the last week of 1966 heightens the pressure on the Johnson administration from two directions.

From such American allies as Thailand and South Korea on the rim of China, there is inevitable concern over any signs of change in U.S. determination to maintain a strong military posture in the Far East.

Within the U.S. Congress and among neutralist and European powers, administration critics are bound to renew demands for an accomodation that would halt the Vietnam war before it escalates into nuclear conflict with Peking.

At the beginning of 1967 there is every indication that President Johnson intends to hold firm to his policy which established the United States as a Pacific power with a very large stake in the future of Asia.

That was one of the underlying purposes of Johnson's attendance at the Manila summit conference and his visit to Asian nations in the fall of 1966.

"The leaders of China must realize that any nuclear capability they can develop can—and will—be deterred. We have already declared that nations which do not seek national nuclear weapons can be sure that they will have our strong support, if they need it, against any threat of nuclear blackmail."

Johnson went on to express hope for friendship with a peaceful China but promised vigilance and strength against a reckless China.

U.S. policy makers look to 1967 as a critical year, particularly in six non-Communist nations where general elections are due to affect the governments of 680 million people.

The elections are scheduled in January in Laos and Japan; in mid-February in India; sometime in mid-spring in South Korea; in South Vietnam by September and in the Philippines in November.

A change in U.S. policy in Asia would affect all six countries and others as well. Not the least of the latter is Communist China itself where an election without ballots seems to be nearing a climax between pro- and anti-Moscow wings of the Communist party. Any hint of U.S. withdrawal from Asia would strengthen the militant Lin Piao wing.

A change in the U.S. posture in Asia also would be felt in Indonesia.

It is the current official view here that if the United States had not built up strength in Vietnam over the past 18 months there would not have been the opportunity for Indonesia to break with Peking.

The change of direction by Jakarta, ending confrontation with Malaysia, returning to the United Nations and banning the Communist party was viewed here as one of the great historical developments of the decade.

In South Vietnam, 1967 is expected to show significant changes as the result of the new pacification strategy. Administration aides are certain of a favorable turn in the military phase of the war, but much less sure of improvement in the political battle for popular civilian support. Looking back over the series of governments in Saigon since the fall of President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963, American officials urge stability but are not betting on how long Premier Nguyen Cao Ky can last after the September election.

Ford's New Look

When the Ford Foundation last summer disclosed its radical communications plan—to establish a non-commercial domestic satellite exclusively for television use and to surcharge commercial television in order to initiate a non-commercial interconnected network—the effect was effervescent as champagne.

Some parties — the National Education Television (NET) network, for instance—greeted the Ford proposal, reportedly the creation of former CBS News president Fred W. Friendly, with almost intoxicated jubilation. Others—the Communications Satellite Corporation (COMSAT) and the common carriers—reacted like drinkers who became morose under the influence.

Now the hangover period has set in.

THE FIRST FILING of comment on the Ford plan and related matters before the Federal Communications Commission is over. Another is set for Feb. 1. Before that—within two weeks, it's expected—the Carnegie Commission on Educational Television will report out its findings.

Meanwhile the Ford Foundation has pulled another surprise.

It has allocated $10 million for a show-me experiment that will link educational stations via overland connections to carry a long Sunday night series of news and comment originating in institutions of higher learning. Columbia, where Friendly is a professor in the Graduate School of Journalism, will be the flagship university.

But the time for—and the shock of—surprises is over. The hour for sober re-evaluation is at hand.

On the basis of the Dec. 16 FCC rulings, the Ford plan has lost both technical and financial ground.

COSMAT claims that its multi-purpose system—to cover telephone and telegram communications and data transmission as well as television—will offer greater economies than the TV-only satellite under the Ford hood.

THE QUASI-PUBLIC body also contends it is the only entity with current congressional authorization to operate communications satellites and that only Congress—not the FCC—can designate another authority in the domestic field.

It further maintains that the creation and financing of a new non-commercial network is a national decision for congressional and presidential action and out of FCC jurisdiction.

These unrefuted arguments have gained strength over the last five months since the first Ford revelation.

On the economic front, the Ford Foundation trimmed its estimate of annual network satellite savings (over current landline tolls) by more than $10 million, acknowledged that a much-higher annual sum will be needed by non-commercial television ($200 million), and suggested that taxation or federal subsidy would be required.

These were serious jokers in the Ford hand. Who likes more taxes?

THE UNUSUALLY QUIET commercial networks—only ABC was vocal in the defense of its original proposal to fly its own communications kite and give NET a free ride—were in the enviable position of not lifting a hand but having their opponent knock himself out shadowboxing.

Even more serious was the division now arising like a miasma from the swamp of conflicting non-commercial educational-television interests.

There is need for an alternative network system—non-commercial vs. commercial — in American television. But neither the American public, which already has invested millions in sets, nor the profitable commercial networks, satisfied with the status quo, have appetite to pay for it.

THERE IS NEED for solid, steady financing of non-commercial educational television, now inadequately tied together by frayed shoestrings in this country, on both network and local-station level.

By ignoring local stations in its original network proposal, by snubbing the existing non-commercial network (NET), and by now proposing to divide that network by forming a new alliance (in effect, a new network) with NET's university stations, the Ford Foundaton has split the non-commercial, which is to say the educational, television world into an ineffectual camp at odds with one another more than with its antagonists.

At this juncture, it appears that only Congress and the President—by dint of determination, hard work, and lots of somebody's money—will be able to untangle the can of worms the Ford Foundation has opened.

5 Arrested For Burning Of Crosses

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Five persons, including a state penitentiary guard, were arrested in Richmond and Henrico County Saturday night and Sunday on charges of burning crosses illegally on public property.

The arrests were the first since Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. signalled a crackdown on cross-burners Dec. 8 by posting a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of such offenders.

Henrico County police arrested the penitentiary guard, Woodford David Taylor, 26, and a second man, Paul C. Pitts Jr., 21, both of Richmond, after a cross-burning at 11:50 p.m. Saturday at the entrance to the all-white Fox Hill apartments in suburban Lakeside.

Less than 45 minutes later, Richmond police took two men and a woman into custody after a cross had been burned near an auto repair shop in a business section in Richmond's West End.

The three were Joe Junior Sammon, 33, of Rt. 3, Glen Allen; Wilson Ralph Price, 30, and his wife, Mrs. Nannie Jane Price, 27, of Henrico.

All the men arrested were charged with burning crosses illegally on public property without consent of the property owner. Mrs. Price was charged with being an accessory.

Penalty for conviction on such a charge can be one to five years in prison, or a $500 fine and 12 months imprisonment.

Godwin, in a move aimed at curbing a resurgence of Ku Klux Klan activity in Virginia, said in a speech Dec. 8 that the flaming cross "is a symbol of terror which must be wiped out."

That same night a cross was burned at the rear of the governor's mansion here, but the culprits have not been found.

Police said Sunday they did not know whether the Henrico County and Richmond City cross-burnings Saturday night and Sunday morning were connected or whether any of those arrested were Klan members.

Rescue Vessels Save All But 5 Of 50 Seamen

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The Coast Guard reported Sunday rescue vessels apparently have saved all but five of an estimated 50 seamen who were missing after the sinking Saturday of a Soviet refrigerator ship in the icy Bering Sea.

More than a score of Soviet fishing vessels were reported taking part in the search, along with the Coast Guard cutter Confidence and a Coast Guard rescue plane from Kodiak.

About 50 men were reported missing Saturday night after the 239-foot ship, identified only as "Refrigerator 10," radioed an SOS, saying she had a hole in the engine room and was sinking 35 miles north of Unimak.

The Coast Guard said details of what happened are lacking because of the language barrier between its rescue personnel and the commander of a Soviet fishing fleet of about 50 vessels in the area.

Most of the sunken ship's 100-man crew apparently was picked up by other Soviet vessels in the area, the Coast Guard said. Most of those reported missing Saturday night are believed to have been rescued by the Soviet fleet command ship Suzdal.

The Confidence and Coast Guard search plane were sent to aid in the request of the fishing fleet's commander, who has not been identified.

The Coast Guard said a plane is standing by at Kodiak with medical supplies and personnel if needed.

The Soviet fleet has been fishing for king crab and bottom fish in the North Pacific, off Alaska, and off the Washington and Oregon coasts for months.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: No matter what brand of boxed pancake or waffle mix I use, they just aren't like grandmother's. Mine are always tough, gummy and thin.

Come on, Heloise. I'm sure you've got that secret, too.

LEWIS GREEN.

Dear Mr. Green: Anytime a recipe says "and add one or two eggs," always separate the whites from the yolks and beat the yolks into the mixture along with all the other ingredients.

Then beat the whites until stiff but not dry, and fold them into the dough. (That means dump 'em on top and lift up the batter with your mixing spoon and keep putting it on top of the whites, mixing gently until all is well blended.)

Your pancakes and waffles will be twice as light, twice as high and not gummy.

It costs no more.

And what's a minute when you can have good, light, crispy, nongooey waffles and pancakes?

Try it. You will love it.

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: Thank heaven for doors on bedrooms . . . especially if the room belongs to a teen-ager!

If necessary, you can just close it and hide the mess. I find that what I don't see, doesn't bother me nearly as much.

DEAR HELOISE: My little boy is always getting holes in the elbows of his long-sleeve shirts.

I mend the elbows with material cut from the button-side of the facing. Then I turn under the cut, raw edge of the facing and blind-stitch in place.

No one can tell that you cut the facing, and the material matches the elbow rip.

MRS. JOHN HIGGINS.

DEAR HELOISE: For a handy and sanitary moistener for stamps, envelope flaps, etc., fill an empty, rubber-tipped mucilage bottle with water. Works great.

MRS. ZEPHIRE PETERSON.

DEAR HELOISE: A friend suggested buying small cotton bath mats the same color as the mats in the car, and using them over the rubber ones to protect the rubber mats where ladies' thin, high heels go through them, and more important, to protect your shoes.

She suggested washing the cotton mats about once every week or two.

Do you have a better solution?

No, I sure don't, and do give your friend a pat on the back from us all.

DEAR HELOISE: When using pants-creasers, hang them on the line with shower curtain hooks.

After closing the hooks, the creasers will not fall from the line no matter how hard the wind is blowing.

MRS. W. D. DRAKE.

DEAR HELOISE: I was trying to arrange some artificial flowers in a tall, clear glass vase.

The stems were too short, so I crushed some clear plastic bags and put them in the bottom of the vase.

Eat To Beat The Pounds

Americans are in a dilemma. Today we have an abundance of good food available the year around, plus assorted conveniences foods with built - in maid service. But our whole way of life has changed and exercise is no longer a part of routine. Well, there it is. With tempting calories readily accessible, it's easy to overeat. But our chances to work off the calories in physical activity have lowered markedly. Consequently, creeping overweight is an ever present threat.

Ida Jean Kain

Traditionally, the first Monday of the New Year is national diet day. It's in the very air. Many of you, eager to reduce, have firmly resolved to start today. The happy thought of losing 10 pounds or 20 has a compelling fascination. Fine! Enthusiasm is a great hill climber. This chance for a fresh start is unexpectedly energizing. It can help you to leap over the wall of habit.

THIS YEAR take a different approach. You want to lick your weight problem to a standstill. Periodic dieting is not the solution. Going on a diet means that shortly you expect to go off the diet and back to eating as usual.

The blunt truth is that on-again, off-again faddy diets are keeping too many Americans from learning how to eat to beat the pounds. Diets that do nothing to change your food habits ignore the real issue—weight control.

The question today is how to keep in good nutritional status and at the same time maintain desirable weight. Or, how to have your cake, or cocktail and eat the protective foods, too, all within your calorie quota.

Nutrition science is wonderful. Certain foods, because of their nutrient composition, provide their full share of protection without boosting calories high. Fortunately, the foods needed to keep the body in good running order are not the weight-makers. But it takes good food habits to keep the nutrients up and the calories down.

What about reducing? Can a reducing diet furnish the essentials? Certainly, provided the backbone of the daily fare includes foods which are good nutrient carriers. That's tomorrow's story.

Brown Will Call Senate To Order With' Hammer'

Brown, who presides over Senate sesisons by virtue of his office, will use a gavel resembling a small sledge hammer presented to him as a life member of American Legion Clifton Post 421, Parkview, Cuyahoga County.

Brown is a lieutenant commander in the Coast Guard with which he saw military service in World War II.

He was elected lieutenant governor last November to a second-four-year term on the Republican ticket. Brown previously served two, two-year terms in that post.

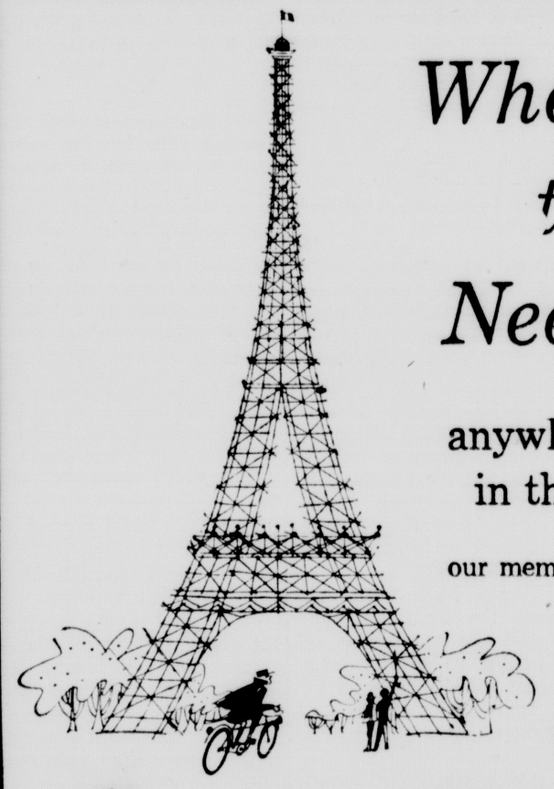

His salary will jump from $8,000 to $17,000 annually upon starting his new term as lieutenant governor Jan. 9 with other reelected GOP state officials.

Calls For All-Asian Conference

Hatfield Suggests Asians Take Over Vietnam War

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Sen.-elect Mark O. Hatfield suggested Sunday that the war in Vietnam should be turned over to Asians.

The Oregon Republican called for an all-Asian conference, "at which we place in their (Asian nations) hands a responsibility to pursue the diplomatic offensive."

At the same time, he said, the United States should "de-Americanize the military action to provide the Asian diplomats with an Asian military question and not an American military issue to solve."

Appearing on the American Broadcasting Co. television-radio program "Issues and Answers," Hatfield said American troops should be gradually withdrawn in a way "so that we are not leaving a void but we are beginning to put the Asian troops in for, or in lieu of, the American troops. This becomes then an Asian war to be settled by Asian diplomats."

He said all Asian nations with a common cause and a common purpose should be invited to the conference, eventually including Red China, because it is involved in the struggle in Vietnam.

Hatfield, governor of Oregon for the past eight years, has been critical of the Johnson administration's policies in Vietnam since 1964.

He said Sunday it would be unfair to criticize without offering constructive alternatives and then offered a three-point program:

1. Correlation of a diplomatic offensive for peace with military action. "When we suspended bombing a year ago Christmas for a period of time in North Vietnam, the very day that we went to the United Nations, supposedly on a diplomatic offensive, we resumed bombing. So, consequently our military policy seemed to contradict our diplomatic policy."

2. Give Asian nations responsibility for both the diplomatic offensive and the military action.

3. Creation of a Southeast Asia common market. No single nation in the area, he said, has a viable economy. "But if we gave the leadership and urged them to form a Southeast Asia common market system whereby these nations join together, it could produce a viable economy."

Hatfield said the French and now the Americans have pursued a policy in Vietnam for 20 years that had produced neither victory nor a solution.

"I don't think," he said, "that a policy that has not brought a solution or a victory in 20 years is one that they (administration leaders) have a right to ask the American people to blindly follow any longer."

Five Youths Killed When Train Hits Car

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Five teen-age Michigan youths were killed when their car was demolished at a New York Central railway crossing five miles east of here Saturday night.

Possibly both the east and wstbound NYC's Twilight Limited Flyers struck the car, the Kalamazoo County sheriff's office said.

The trains hit 80 m.p.h. as they meet at that point on the NYC's double track between Chicago and Detroit.

The car wreckage was carried for seven miles on the westbound train's diesel engine. Sheriff's men said the car was fused to the front of the engine, so great was the impact.

Killed were Dennis Lockwood, David Hagerman, Gay Warner and David Hanchon, all 16, and Teryil Smith, 17. All lived in Three Rivers, 25 miles south of Kalamazoo.

Israel-Arab Border Clash Is Reported

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — An Israel-Arab border clash was reported on the first morning of the New Year from Hakon, an Israeli settlement east of the Sea of Galilee.

An Israeli army spokesman said Syrian positions at Amarat-Az-Din fired four times at three Israeli tractors operating in the same area toward which Syrians fired last Friday.

The fire was reported returned Sunday by an Israeli protective squad. The fire on Friday was not returned by the Israelis, the spokesman said.

Fire Hits 350 Shops

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Fire razed about 350 shops in a market area of Taegu, 140 miles south of Seoul, Sunday, causing an estimated $3.7 million loss, news reports said. Most shops were closed down for the New Year holiday. No loss of life was reported in the fire, which was believed caused by a short circuit. The fire was controlled after four hours.

Summary Of 1966

Building Permits Fall To $974,459

New construction and remodeling hit $974,459 in East Liverpool during 1966, a comparatively good year but less than 50 per cent of the record-breaking $2,150,485 in 1965.

The number of building permits issued by Mayor George E. Willshaw's office held close to the total of the preceding year, but a long series of major projects in 1965 accounted for the record - breaking total.

The 1966 projects bring to $17,311,106 the estimated dollar value of building projects in the city since the close of World War II in 1945. The permits exceeded the $2 million mark in only one other year. That was in 1954, when the total hit $2,118,653. The third biggest year for local construction was the $1,569,362 in 1953.

DURING 1966, there was only one major project to help swell the total. That was in October when authorization was issued to build the new East Elementary School at an estimated cost of $425,000. It will be erected alongside the present East Junior High building in East End. The school permit pushed the total for October to $456,606.

The 1965 total was pushed to a record by a whole series of major projects. They included two new motels, one costing $100,000 and another estimated at $350,000; a convalescent center costing $250,000; an apartment complex worth $275,000, and a $100,000 church remodeling.

By contrast, the 1963 permits hit $922,839 and 1962 building authorizations reached $1,971,932. The total for 1961 was $443,303.

The 1966 total does not represent all the new construction work in the immediate East Liverpool area.

Millions have been spent on new housing in the suburban areas immediately outside the corporate limits in a postwar migration to the adjoining townships that began 20 years ago. Governmental projects are not included, as building permits are not required.

HERE'S A monthly breakdown on the dollar value of 1966 building permits, contrasting the totals with the same months in 1965:

January, $17,745 and $11,567, February, $32,300 and $1,500; March, $36,400 and $60,800; April, $59,927 and $192,325; May, $122,520 and $72,870; June, $34,700 and $387,475; July, $76,361 and $759,675; August, $23,770 and $354,380; September, $85,380 and $142,917; October, $456,606 and $52,734; November, $21,800 and $106,650, and December, $8,650 and $2,300.

Clayton Cochran, to add two rooms to a home at 212 McKee St., $500.

Pakitsan Thanks U.S., Red China For Food Grains

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan Saturday night thanked the United States and Communist China for supplying food grains to help Pakistan's hungry population.

He asked Pakistanis in a radio broadcast to check the growth of the country's population, which he said was the main cause of the food storage. The president told the people not to panic because Pakistan has imported 800,000 tons of food grains from the United States and another 500,000 tons is on the way. Communist China is supply 100,000 tons of wheat and 50,000 tons of rice.

Ayub said there is enough food in the country to meet its need until home-grown food grains become available in April.

2 Men Shot To Death In Canton Incidents

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Two men, one a retired Air Force major, were shot to death in Canton early Sunday in separate shooting incidents, police said.

Major Enyard Smith, 56, was shot to death while visiting his former wife, Rita Mann. Police said the woman's present husband, Glenn, 33, was charged with first degree murder in the shooting.

Police said Mrs. Mann told them Smith was shot after her husband returned home from a New Year's party.

The second shooting victim, Augustus Baldwin, 37, of Canton, was killed following a quarrel at a tavern in the southeast part of the city, police said.

Officers said Pearlie Howard, 29, of Canton, turned himself in at police headquarters. Howard was charged with first degree murder.

If all the rainfall per year stayed on top of the ground in Ohio, it would make a lake three feet deep the size of the state.

Summary Of 1966

Building Permits Fall To $974,459

New construction and remodeling hit $974,459 in East Liverpool during 1966, a comparatively good year but less than 50 per cent of the record-breaking $2,150,485 in 1965.

The number of building permits issued by Mayor George E. Willshaw's office held close to the total of the preceding year, but a long series of major projects in 1965 accounted for the record - breaking total.

The 1966 projects bring to $17,311,106 the estimated dollar value of building projects in the city since the close of World War II in 1945. The permits exceeded the $2 million mark in only one other year. That was in 1954, when the total hit $2,118,653. The third biggest year for local construction was the $1,569,362 in 1953.

DURING 1966, there was only one major project to help swell the total. That was in October when authorization was issued to build the new East Elementary School at an estimated cost of $425,000. It will be erected alongside the present East Junior High building in East End. The school permit pushed the total for October to $456,606.

By contrast, the 1963 permits hit $922,839 and 1962 building authorizations reached $1,071,932. The total for 1961 was $443,303.

Packers, Chiefs Head For $$$Super Bowl Jan. 15

the Review Sports

By JACK HAND

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Bart Starr's four touchdown passes gave Green Bay its 10th National Football League title with a 34-27 victory over the Dallas Cowboys Sunday and moved the Packers into the rich Super Bowl with the Kansas City Chiefs, champs of the American Football League.

The sell-out crowd of 75,504 in the Cotton Bowl was sent into a roaring frenzy when the Cowboys struck back in the final period and pulled within seven points of a tie.

With the help of a pass interference call, Dallas had the ball on the Packer two-yard line with fourth down and 28 seconds to go.

Linebacker Dave Robinson rushed Don Meredith and made the Dallas quarterback hurry his throw into the end zone, where Tom Brown made the interception to save the day for the Packers.

The exciting comeback threatened to send the title game into sudden death overtime. The chance of a tie arose when Don Chandler's conversion attempt after the fifth Packer touchdown went awry, apparently blocked by Bob Lilly. Instead of leading 35-20, that made it 34-20.

A quick 68-yard TD strike from Meredith to Frank Clarke closed the gap to seven points and a desperate, short, 15-yard punt by Chandler gave the Cowboys another shot at it in the final seconds.

The crowd was stunned by two quick Green Bay touchdowns within 12 seconds in the first quarter but thrilled to a gallant comeback by the Cowboys to tie the score at 14-14.

The victory put the Packers into the Jan. 15 Super Bowl at the Los Angeles Coliseum, where a winner is guaranteed $15,000 a man and a loser $7,500. The Cowboys got about $6,000 each for their losing effort.

Starr hit Elijah Pitts with a 17-yard TD pass, connected with Carroll Dale with a 51-yarder and then hit Boyd Dowler from the 16 and Max McGee from the 28 to back up his claims to the most valuable player title in the NFL.

The other Packer touchdown came in the first period as Mel Renfro fumbled the kickoff when hit by Bob Brown, and rookie Jim Grabowski picked up the ball and ran 18 for the score. It came only 12 seconds after Starr had hit Pitts with his first TD pass.

It was a tremendous football game, played under perfect weather conditions with clear skies, the temperature in the low 50s and the field in top shape, despite Saturday's Cotton Bowl classic.

Dallas, a seven-point underdog, gave the defending champs the scare of a lifetime and outgained them 418 yards to 367 yards and also rolled up 23 first down to 19 by Green Bay.

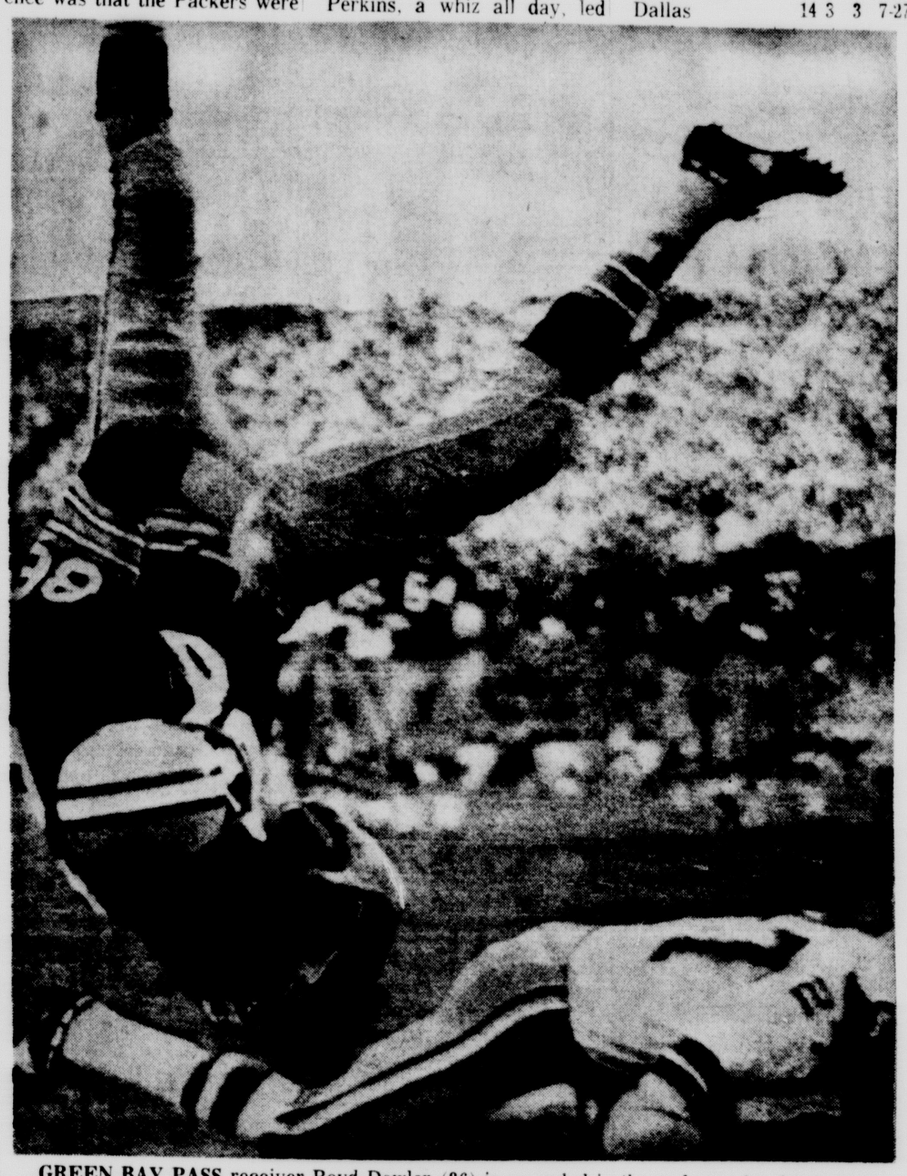

As it turned out, the difference was that the Packers were able to convert their one fumble recovery by Grabowski into a TD. The Packers also lost one fumble and possibly a TD, but the Cowboys had to settle for a field goal when a long drive faltered on the 26 in the third period.

Perkins, a whiz all day, led the rushers with 108 yards on 17 carries and teammate Reeves ran for 47 yards on 17 efforts. Pitts was the leading Packer runner with 66 on 12 carries.

Starr hit with 19 of 28 for 304 yards and the four TDs. The veteran pro from Alabama, intercepted only three times all year, did not have a single pass picked off. Starr was thrown five times attempting to pass for total losses of 39 yards.

Meredith, who completed 15 of 31 for 238 and one TD, had only one interception— the final by Brown.

Long Weekend Comes To A Close

Purdue, Alabama And Tech Are Picked In Bowl Games

By The Associated Press

Football's marathon weekend comes to a close today with a trio of collegiate bowl games spread over the holiday afternoon and evening.

The final segment of the gridiron feast begins with Alabama and Nebraska kicking off in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl at 2 p.m., EST., followed by the 5 p.m. clash between Purdue and Southern California in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena. At 8 p.m., Georgia Tech and Florida take over Miami's Orange Bowl. All three games will be televised nationally by NBC.

The Monday program was preceded by the Cotton and Gator Bowl games plus the annual East-West Shrine contest on Saturday and the block and tackle title parties of the American and National Leagues on Sunday.

Alabama, the country's only unbeaten-untied major eleven, is favored by a full touchdown to repeat its triumph of a year ago over Nebraska, the Big Eight champion. Last season the two finished the holiday football fiesta in the Orange Bowl with the quick Southerners winning 39-28.

Purdue, the No. 2 team in the Big Ten, is a 13-point choice over Southern California, the Pacific-8 representative in the Rose Bowl, primarily because of Bob Griese's passing. However, the Trojans were more than nettled by the 51-0 shellacking given them by Notre Dame in their schedule finale and may be in the mood to get some revenge by drubbing Purdue, also from the state of Indiana.

Odds on Georgia Tech to beat Florida under the lights in Miami dropped almost daily last week because of numerous injuries to Tech's defensive unit. The Georgians, 3½ point favorites a week ago, now are no better than 1½. Most vital casualty is Billy Schroer, linebacker, who was to have led the blitz against Steve Spurrier, the Florida passer who is the 1966 winner of the Heisman Trophy.

Schroer suffered a knee injury in Tech's loss to Georgia at the end of the season and has been unable to regain his speed since.

Alabama Is Favored By 9 Points

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An explosive air arm and an iron-girded goal line defense make third-ranked Alabama a firm nine-point choice over beefy Nebraska Monday in the 33rd Sugar Bowl football game.

The kickoff is at 2 p.m. EST., with NBC telecasting.

The Crimson Tide hope to counteract the Cornhuskers' superior tonnage — about 35 pounds to the man — with a swarming pursuit that has limited 10 foes to 37 points, a left-handed quarterback named Ken Stabler and two fleet receivers, Ray Perkins and Dennis Homan.

The powerful, sixth-ranked Nebraskans are banking on a stable of churching ball-carriers, headed by Harry Wilson and Ben Gregory, and a fired-up desire to avenge last year's 39-28 loss to Alabama in the Orange Bowl.

"Our boys are mentally ready — I've never seen them more determined," said Nebraska's head coach, Bob Devaney, sending a team into a bowl for the fifth straight time. "We can win if we play our game."

That game is ball-control. The Cornhuskers will field a team with four defensive linemen — tackles Jim McCord and Carl Stith, middle guard Wayne Meylan and end Jerry Patton — averaging 251 pounds.

There's not a man in the offensive line under 200 pounds and the weight ranges from 202 for end Dennis Morrison and guard Jim Osberg to 258 for tackle Bob Pickens.

Behind this massive wall, Nebraska can throw a phalanx of runners such as the 212-pound Wilson, who has averaged 5.6 yards a carry; 219-pound Gregory, averaging 4.4 with a double threat as pass receiver, and the 220-pound fullback Pete Tatman, who has a plunging average of 3.9.

"These boys scare you," said Alabama coach Paul Bryant. "They run right over you."

Bryant is concerned that Nebraska will be fighting mad as a result of last year's defeat and will have a big edge psychologically although his own team is miffed at having lost the national championship to Notre Dame although the Tide was the only major team to go through the season without a defeat or tie.

"If we beat this Nebraska team, we'll be the best in the country," Bryant said.

Stabler, a 179-pound junior who is called the Snake, has thrown for 956 yards and nine touchdowns with a 64.9 completion average. His main targets have been Perkins and Homan, two six-footers who can get behind defenders and run like Olympic sprinters.

"Alabama can score quicker than we can," said Devaney. "We figure we've got to keep them from getting the ball."

Kansas City Routs Bills, 31-7, For AFL Laurels

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The Kansas City Chiefs ended Buffalo's two-year domination of the American Football League Sunday on Len Dawson's unerring passes and Mike Garrett's two touchdown runs, whipping the Bills 31-7 in the league's championship game enroute to a Super Bowl berth.

The victory, figured to be worth an AFL championship record of some $7,000 to each Chief, sent Kansas City into the first Super Bowl game at Los Angeles Jan. 15 against the Green Bay Packers.

A slight drizzle fell throughout the dismal, overcast day as the Bills sought an unprecedented third straight title and the Chiefs went after their first title since 1962 when they stopped Houston's bid for three straight crowns.

Dawson actually put the game out of Buffalo's reach in the first half when he completed 9 of 14 passes for 109 yards and two touchdowns — duplicate 29-yard throws to right end Fred Arbanas and flanker Otis Taylor.

Mike Mercer added a 32-yard field goal for a 17-7 halftime lead before the Chiefs broke it open in the final quarter on Garrett's one-yard plunge and 18-yard run.

In addition, the Bills contributed several times to Kansas City's offense, particularly in the first half when Dudley Meredith fumbled a kickoff, Tom Janik dropped two apparent interceptions and Kemp missed a chance to put Buffalo on the scoreboard when his pass attempt near the end of the period was intercepted by Johnny Robinson.

Kemp, hard-pressed to find his receivers most of the game, finished with only 12 completions in 27 attempts. He did hit Elbert Dubenion on a 69-yard scoring play and wound up with 253 yards gained.

Dawson was more effective, hitting on 16 of 24 attempts for 227 yards. That, and Garrett's late runs, were enough to send the Chiefs into the Super Bowl and a bid for the $15,000 winner's prize.

The attendance at the key AFL game was 42,080, a record for an AFL title game but less than the 45,700-seat capacity at War Memorial Stadium.

Each Chief Gets $5,308 For Win In Playoff Tilt

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Each member of the Kansas Ctiy Chiefs received a record $5,308.39 Sunday for winning the American Football League championship.

That, and a crowd of 42,080 — about 3,000 under capacity at Buffalo's War Memorial Stadium — held the record share under the $7,000 winning share that had been anticipated.

By JACK HAND

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Bart Starr's four touchdown passes gave Green Bay its 10th National Football League title with a 34-27 victory over the Dallas Cowboys Sunday and moved the Packers into the rich Super Bowl with the Kansas City Chiefs, champs of the American Football League.

The sell-out crowd of 75,504 in the Cotton Bowl was sent into a roaring frenzy when the Cowboys struck back in the final period and pulled within seven points of a tie.

With the help of a pass interference call, Dallas had the ball on the Packer two-yard line with fourth down and 28 seconds to go.

Linebacker Dave Robinson rushed Don Meredith and made the Dallas quarterback hurry his throw into the end zone, where Tom Brown made the interception to save the day for the Packers.

The exciting comeback threatened to send the title game into sudden death overtime. The chance of a tie arose when Don Chandler's conversion attempt after the fifth Packer touchdown went awry, apparently blocked by Bob Lilly. Instead of leading 35-20, that made it 34-20.

A quick 68-yard TD strike from Meredith to Frank Clarke closed the gap to seven points and a desperate, short, 15-yard punt by Chandler gave the Cowboys another shot at it in the final seconds.

The crowd was stunned by two quick Green Bay touchdowns within 12 seconds in the first quarter but thrilled to a gallant comeback by the Cowboys to tie the score at 14-14.

Although Don Perkins and Dan Reeves chewed out yardage against the vaunted Packer defense, it was a case of too much Starr as Green Bay pulled away to win about $8,600 a man.

The victory put the Packers into the Jan. 15 Super Bowl at the Los Angeles Coliseum, where a winner is guaranteed $15,000 a man and a loser $7,500. The Cowboys got about $6,000 each for their losing effort.

Starr hit Elijah Pitts with a 17-yard TD pass, connected with Carroll Dale with a 51-yarder and then hit Boyd Dowler from the 16 and Max McGee from the 28 to back up his claims to the most valuable player title in the NFL.

The other Packer touchdown came in the first period as Mel Renfro fumbled the kickoff when hit by Bob Brown, and rookie Jim Grabowski picked up the ball and ran 18 for the score. It came only 12 seconds after Starr had hit Pitts with his first TD pass.

It was a tremendous football game, played under perfect weather conditions with clear skies, the temperature in the low 50s and the field in top shape, despite Saturday's Cotton Bowl classic.

Dallas, a seven-point underdog, gave the defending champs the scare of a lifetime and outgained them 418 yards to 367 yards and also rolled up 23 first down to 19 by Green Bay.

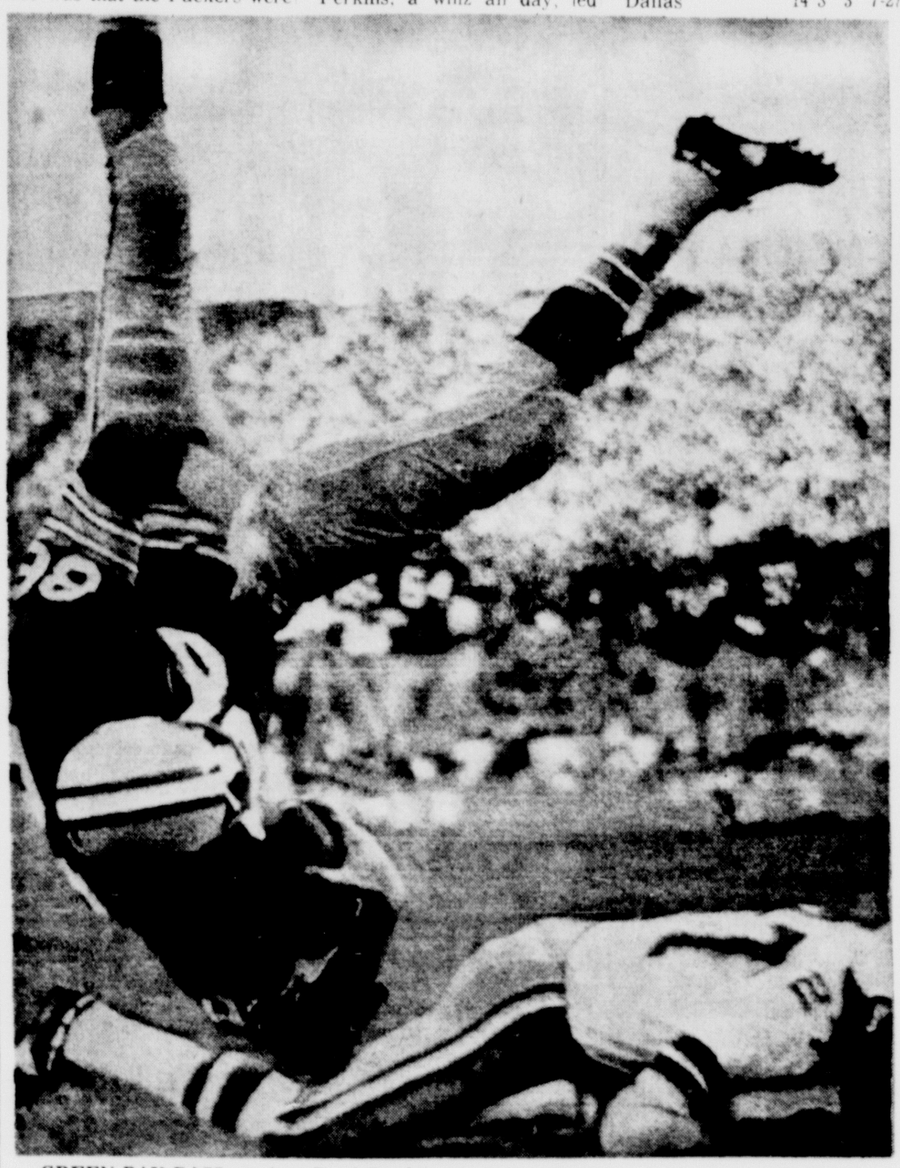

As it turned out, the difference was that the Packers were able to convert their one fumble recovery by Grabowski into a TD. The Packers also lost one fumble and possibly a TD, but the Cowboys had to settle for a field goal when a long drive faltered on the 26 in the third period.

Perkins, a whiz all day, led the rushers with 108 yards on 17 carries and teammate Reeves ran for 47 yards on 17 efforts. Pitts was the leading Packer runner with 66 on 12 carries.

Starr hit with 19 of 28 for 304 yards and the four TDs. The veteran pro from Alabama, intercepted only three times all year, did not have a single pass picked off. Starr was thrown five times attempting to pass for total losses of 39 yards.

Meredith, who completed 15 of 31 for 238 and one TD, had only one interception— the final by Brown.

Alabama Is Favored By 9 Points

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An explosive air arm and an iron-girded goal line defense make third-ranked Alabama a firm nine-point choice over beefy Nebraska Monday in the 33rd Sugar Bowl football game.

The kickoff is at 2 p.m. EST., with NBC telecasting.

The Crimson Tide hope to counteract the Cornhuskers' superior tonnage — about 35 pounds to the man — with a swarming pursuit that has limited 10 foes to 37 points, a left-handed quarterback named Ken Stabler and two fleet receivers, Ray Perkins and Dennis Homan.

The powerful, sixth-ranked Nebraskans are banking on a stable of churching ball-carriers, headed by Harry Wilson and Ben Gregory, and a fired-up desire to avenge last year's 39-28 loss to Alabama in the Orange Bowl.

"Our boys are mentally ready — I've never seen them more determined," said Nebraska's head coach, Bob Devaney, sending a team into a bowl for the fifth straight time. "We can win if we play our game."

That game is ball-control. The Cornhuskers will field a team with four defensive linemen — tackles Jim McCord and Carl Stith, middle guard Wayne Meylan and end Jerry Patton — averaging 251 pounds.

There's not a man in the offensive line under 200 pounds and the weight ranges from 202 for end Dennis Morrison and guard Jim Osberg to 258 for tackle Bob Pickens.

Behind this massive wall, Nebraska can throw a phalanx of runners such as the 212-pound Wilson, who has averaged 5.6 yards a carry; 219-pound Gregory, averaging 4.4 with a double threat as pass receiver, and the 220-pound fullback Pete Tatman, who has a plunging average of 3.9.

"These boys scare you," said Alabama coach Paul Bryant. "They run right over you."

Bryant is concerned that Nebraska will be fighting mad as a result of last year's defeat and will have a big edge psychologically although his own team is miffed at having lost the national championship to Notre Dame although the Tide was the only major team to go through the season without a defeat or tie.

"If we beat this Nebraska team, we'll be the best in the country," Bryant said.

Stabler, a 179-pound junior who is called the Snake, has thrown for 956 yards and nine touchdowns with a 64.9 completion average. His main targets have been Perkins and Homan, two six-footers who can get behind defenders and run like Olympic sprinters.

"Alabama can score quicker than we can," said Devaney. "We figure we've got to keep them from getting the ball."

Kansas City Routs Bills, 31-7, For AFL Laurels

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The Kansas City Chiefs ended Buffalo's two-year domination of the American Football League Sunday on Len Dawson's unerring passes and Mike Garrett's two touchdown runs, whipping the Bills 31-7 in the league's championship game enroute to a Super Bowl berth.

The victory, figured to be worth an AFL championship record of some $7,000 to each Chief, sent Kansas City into the first Super Bowl game at Los Angeles Jan. 15 against the Green Bay Packers.

A slight drizzle fell throughout the dismal, overcast day as the Bills sought an unprecedented third straight title and the Chiefs went after their first title since 1962 when they stopped Houston's bid for three straight crowns.

Dawson actually put the game out of Buffalo's reach in the first half when he completed 9 of 14 passes for 109 yards and two touchdowns — duplicate 29-yard throws to right end Fred Arbanas and flanker Otis Taylor.

Mike Mercer added a 32-yard field goal for a 17-7 halftime lead before the Chiefs broke it open in the final quarter on Garrett's one-yard plunge and 18-yard run.

Kansas City ran its plays out of the "I" formation with the backs lining up behind Dawson before shifting into a normal formation.

In addition, the Bills contributed several times to Kansas City's offense, particularly in the first half when Dudley Meredith fumbled a kickoff, Tom Janik dropped two apparent interceptions and Kemp missed a chance to put Buffalo on the scoreboard when his pass attempt near the end of the period was intercepted by Johnny Robinson.

Dawson was more effective, hitting on 16 of 24 attempts for 227 yards. That, and Garrett's late runs, were enough to send the Chiefs into the Super Bowl and a bid for the $15,000 winner's prize.

The attendance at the key AFL game was 42,080, a record for an AFL title game but less than the 45,700-seat capacity at War Memorial Stadium.

Long Weekend Comes To A Close

Purdue, Alabama And Tech Are Picked In Bowl Games

By The Associated Press

Football's marathon weekend comes to a close today with a trio of collegiate bowl games spread over the holiday afternoon and evening.

The final segment of the gridiron feast begins with Alabama and Nebraska kicking off in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl at 2 p.m., EST., followed by the 5 p.m. clash between Purdue and Southern California in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena. At 8 p.m., Georgia Tech and Florida take over Miami's Orange Bowl. All three games will be televised nationally by NBC.

The Monday program was preceded by the Cotton and Gator Bowl games plus the annual East-West Shrine contest on Saturday and the block and tackle title parties of the American and National Leagues on Sunday.

Alabama, the country's only unbeaten-untied major eleven, is favored by a full touchdown to repeat its triumph of a year ago over Nebraska, the Big Eight champion. Last season the two finished the holiday football fiesta in the Orange Bowl with the quick Southerners winning 39-28.

Purdue, the No. 2 team in the Big Ten, is a 13-point choice over Southern California, the Pacific-8 representative in the Rose Bowl, primarily because of Bob Griese's passing. However, the Trojans were more than nettled by the 51-0 shellacking given them by Notre Dame in their schedule finale and may be in the mood to get some revenge by drubbing Purdue, also from the state of Indiana.

Odds on Georgia Tech to beat Florida under the lights in Miami dropped almost daily last week because of numerous injuries to Tech's defensive unit. The Georgians, 3½ point favorites a week ago, now are no better than 1½. Most vital casualty is Billy Schroer, linebacker, who was to have led the blitz against Steve Spurrier, the Florida passer who is the 1966 winner of the Heisman Trophy.

Schroer suffered a knee injury in Tech's loss to Georgia at the end of the season and has been unable to regain his speed since.

Harada Faces Medel In Title Bout Tuesday

By The Associated Press

Japan's fighting Harada makes his third defense of the world bantamweight boxing title Tuesday night when he faces Joe Medel, a hard-hitting veteran from Mexico, at Nagoya, Japan.

Harada was knocked out in the sixth round by Medel three years ago when the Japanese was a flyweight. Since then Harada won the 118-pound crown from previously unbeaten Eder Jofre of Brazil.

Walk Off With Tourney Honors

UCLA, Louisville Await Conference Action Next

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA and Louisville, each unbeaten and ranked 1-2 among the nation's college basketball powers, walked off with two of the top prizes in the annual holiday tournament extravaganza and now turn their attention to conference play.

Louisville, 11-0, has games with Missouri Valley rivals Tulsa and North Texas State.

Alcindor, harassed by a sagging Southern California defense, still scored 25 points and fed guards Lucius Allen and Mike Warren for 22 and 20, respectively, in leading UCLA to a 107-83 romp over the Trojans in the title game of the Los Angeles Classic.

There was only a scattering of activity New Year's Eve, with Canisius beating Fairfield, Conn., 87-66 for the title in the Queen City Classic at Buffalo, N.Y., in the last of the big tournaments.

Ninth-ranked Vanderbilt made its only outing of the week at Auburn, Ala., and took a 64-51 licking at the hands of the Tigers in a Southeastern Conference game, a 20-point effort by Auburn's Bobby Buisson was the key to the upset.

Most of the rest of the Saturday games also were in the SEC, Mississippi State storming to its ninth straight with a 93-71 decision on Georgia's home court, Florida beating Mississippi 79-64 at Gainesville, Fla., Kentucky scoring a 96-85 decision over Notre Dame at Louisville, and Memphis State beating touring Yale 57-43.

In some of the other major tournaments that ended Friday, defending champion Providence beat St. Josephs, Pa., 82-76 for the title in the Holiday Festival at New York, Washington took Washington State 80-72 in the Far West Classic, and fifth-ranked New Mexico stopped Colorado State University, 64-49 in the Lobo Invitational at Albuquerque.

Montana State upset host Oklahoma City 82-81 in overtime in the oldest of all the tourneys, the All-College, while Pacific took San Francisco 59-51 in the WCAC tourney.

Texas Western, No. 4 and the defending national champion, rebounded with a 66-47 triumph over Drake for third place in the Suna Carnival after being upset in the opening round. Southern Methodist took the title, edging Southern Illinois 66-64 in the title game.

North Carolina, ranked third in the nation, stayed out of the tourneys, but scored two victories, the latest a 105-82 romp over Ohio State Friday night. North Carolina is now 9-0.

LEGAL NOTICES

LEGAL NOTICE

Virgil Hall, if living, whose place of residence is unknown and cannot be ascertained, and the unknown heirs, devisees, legatees, administrators, executors and assigns of George Alfred Harrison, deceased, Henrietta E. Harrison, deceased, John Horwell, deceased, Mary Horwell, deceased, Emma Horwell Moon, deceased, Harry Horwell, deceased, James R. Horwell, deceased, Willis Harrison, deceased, Herbert Harrison, deceased, Henrietta Harrison Hillyard, deceased, Lillian Harriso Ranzi, deceased, Emma Harriso Hall, deceased, and Virgil Hall, if deceased, will take notice that on the 4th day of November, 1966, Mildred Koontz, Administratrix of the estate of Henrietta E. Harrison, deceased, plaintiff therein, filed her petition against them in the Probate Court of Columbiana County, Ohio, the same being Case No. 62344 A, Docket 73, Page 46, entitled Mildred Koontz, Administratrix of the estate of Henrietta E. Harrison, deceased, vs. Ruth Moon McDowell, et al, in said Court asking for authority to sell certain real estate in said petition described, to-wit:

Situated in the City of East Liverpool, County of Columbiana, State of Ohio, and known as and being the south rectangular Fifty (50) feet of Lot Number Three Hundred Sixty (360) in James Blakely's Addition to said City; said south part of said Lot Number Three Hundred Sixty (360) fronts Sixty (0) feet on West Fourth Street and extends back therefrom Fifty (50) feet.

The prayer of said petition is that the plaintiff, as Administratrix, be authorized to sell said real estate, that the rights, interest and liens of all parties may be fully determined, adjusted and protected, and for such other and further relief and orders as may be determined by the Court. Said defendants are required to answer said petition on or before the 11th day of January, 1967, or judgment will be taken against them.

MILDRED KOONTZ,
BY: Francis H. Lang,

Walk Off With Tourney Honors

UCLA, Louisville Await Conference Action Next

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA and Louisville, each unbeaten and ranked 1-2 among the nation's college basketball powers, walked off with two of the top prizes in the annual holiday tournament extravaganza and now turn their attention to conference play.

Louisville, 11-0, has games with Missouri Valley rivals Tulsa and North Texas State.

Alcindor, harassed by a sagging Southern California defense, still scored 25 points and fed guards Lucius Allen and Mike Warren for 22 and 20, respectively, in leading UCLA to a 107-83 romp over the Trojans in the title game of the Los Angeles Classic.

Louisville beat previously undefeated Princeton 72-63 for the title in the Quaker City Tournament at Philadelphia, also on Friday night.

There was only a scattering of activity New Year's Eve, with Canisius beating Fairfield, Conn., 87-66 for the title in the Queen City Classic at Buffalo, N.Y., in the last of the big tournaments.

Ninth-ranked Vanderbilt made its only outing of the week at Auburn, Ala., and took a 64-51 licking at the hands of the Tigers in a Southeastern Conference game, a 20-point effort by Auburn's Bobby Buisson was the key to the upset.

Most of the rest of the Saturday games also were in the SEC, Mississippi State storming to its ninth straight with a 93-71 decision on Georgia's home court, Florida beating Mississippi 79-64 at Gainesville, Fla., Kentucky scoring a 96-85 decision over Notre Dame at Louisville, and Memphis State beating touring Yale 57-43.

In some of the other major tournaments that ended Friday, defending champion Providence beat St. Josephs, Pa., 82-76 for the title in the Holiday Festival at New York, Washington took Washington State 80-72 in the Far West Classic, and fifth-ranked New Mexico stopped Colorado State University, 64-49 in the Lobo Invitational at Albuquerque.

Montana State upset host Oklahoma City 82-81 in overtime in the oldest of all the tourneys, the All-College, while Pacific took San Francisco 59-51 in the WCAC tourney.

Texas Western, No. 4 and the defending national champion, rebounded with a 66-47 triumph over Drake for third place in the Suna Carnival after being upset in the opening round. Southern Methodist took the title, edging Southern Illinois 66-64 in the title game.

North Carolina, ranked third in the nation, stayed out of the tourneys, but scored two victories, the latest a 105-82 romp over Ohio State Friday night. North Carolina is now 9-0.

Harrison, deceased, plaintiff therein filed her petition against them in the Probate Court of Columbiana County, Ohio, the same being Case No. 62344 A. Docket 73, Page 46, entitled Mildred Koontz, Administratrix of the estate of Henrietta E. Harrison, deceased, vs. Ruth Moon McDowell, et al, in said Court asking for authority to sell certain real estate in said petition described, to-wit:

Situated in the City of East Liverpool, County of Columbiana, State of Ohio, and known as and being the south rectangular Fifty (50) feet of Lot Number Three Hundred Sixty (360) in James Blakely's Addition to said City, said south part of said Lot Number Three Hundred Sixty (360) fronts Sixty (0) feet on West Fourth Street and extends back therefrom Fifty (50) feet.

The prayer of said petition is that the plaintiff, as Administratrix, be authorized to sell said real estate, that the rights, interest and liens of all parties may be fully determined, adjusted and protected, and for such other and further relief and orders as may be determined by the Court. Said defendants are required to answer said petition on or before the 11th day of January, 1967, or judgment will be taken against them.

MILDRED KOONTZ,
BY: Francis H. Lang,

Junior Editors Quiz on HARES

QUESTION: Why do snowshoe rabbits change colors?

ANSWER: Actually, the snowshoe rabbit is a hare, an animal with longer legs than the rabbit, who can leap a long way and who generally has longer ears. The snowshoe rabbit has shorter ears than most other hares. Because it lives in the north where there is much winter snow, it has large feet which hold it up on the surface as a snowshoe holds up a man. The changing colors are a remarkable example of protective coloration by which nature enables many of her creatures to blend with their surroundings so as not to be easily seen by hunters or hunting animals. Animals which escape because their color protects them survive to produce young which are also fitted to survive because of protective coloration. In this way, snowshoe rabbits in summer have become dark all over because they blend with the dark leaves and thickets (1). But as the snow begins to fly in the fall (2) white patches appear on the dark ground and white patches also appear on the bodies of snowshoe rabbits. In the white winter (3) these hares turn white all over. In spring (4) they become light and dark again, as the snow begins to melt.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Look for some examples of protective coloration, especially among the birds, which are easy to study.

★ ★ ★

Rene Laffoon of Carmichael, Calif., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Jan. 2, the second day of 1967. There are 363 days left in the year.

On this date:

In 1788, Geoergia ratifid the Constitution.

In 1942, the capital of the Philippines, Manila, fell to the Japanese.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower rejected Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's November proposal for a five-power summit conference. The President said the United States preferred to continue disarmament negotiations within the framework of the United Nations.

Five years ago — America's ambassador to the Soviet Union, Llewellyn Thompson, conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Moscow and asked Gromyko to state the Soviet Union's terms for a Berlin settlement.

One year ago—American airborne troops, using non-lethal gas, started a move to drive the Communist Viet Cong toward the South Vietnam-Cambodian border.

Junior Editors Quiz on HARES

QUESTION: Why do snowshoe rabbits change colors?

ANSWER: Actually, the snowshoe rabbit is a hare, an animal with longer legs than the rabbit, who can leap a long way and who generally has longer ears. The snowshoe rabbit has shorter ears than most other hares. Because it lives in the north where there is much winter snow, it has large feet which hold it up on the surface as a snowshoe holds up a man. The changing colors are a remarkable example of protective coloration by which nature enables many of her creatures to blend with their surroundings so as not to be easily seen by hunters or hunting animals. Animals which escape because their color protects them survive to produce young which are also fitted to survive because of protective coloration. In this way, snowshoe rabbits in summer have become dark all over because they blend with the dark leaves and thickets (1). But as the snow begins to fly in the fall (2) white patches appear on the dark ground and white patches also appear on the bodies of snowshoe rabbits. In the white winter (3) these hares turn white all over. In spring (4) they become light and dark again, as the snow begins to melt.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Look for some examples of protective coloration, especially among the birds, which are easy to study.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Jan. 2, the second day of 1967. There are 363 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date:

In 1788, Geoergia ratifid the Constitution.

In 1942, the capital of the Philippines, Manila, fell to the Japanese.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower rejected Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's November proposal for a five-power summit conference. The President said the United States preferred to continue disarmament negotiations within the framework of the United Nations.

Five years ago — America's ambassador to the Soviet Union, Llewellyn Thompson, conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Moscow and asked Gromyko to state the Soviet Union's terms for a Berlin settlement.

One year ago—American airborne troops, using non-lethal gas, started a move to drive the Communist Viet Cong toward the South Vietnam-Cambodian border.

TOKYO (AP) — A Red Chinese dispatch claimed Monday U.S. and South Vietnamese forces invaded a Cambodian border village Friday, killed four Cambodians, wounded two and kidnaped 12 others.

The New China News Agency said in a dispatch from Phnom Penh, Cambodia: "At 11 o'clock that day, 50 U.S.-Saigon puppet helicopters, four L13 and two F105 aircraft intruded over Bathu village, Svay Rieng province.

"They strafed and fired rockets. Then, 42 helicopters landed at the Cambodian village and the U.S.-Saigon puppet troops on board stormed it, set fire to houses, and looted."

The Chinese dispatch said Cambodian government officials and military and press attaches of foreign embassies in Phnom Penh made an on-the-spot inspection at the village Saturday.

"The visiting newsmen and others could hardly suppress their shock and indignation when they witnessed the crimes the U.S. aggressors had committed and heard the villagers' accusations," the agency said.

"They saw the remains of the killed, the ruined houses and fragments of the rockets and shells fired. Before entering the village they witnessed U.S.-Saigon puppet aircraft reconnoitering over the village."

China Chimes Purged

TOKYO (AP)—The chimes in the Wuhan Customs House in eastern China have been purged of their foreign outlook. It seems the chimes have struck the first few bars of an unidentified British tune every 15 minutes since 1924 when Wuhan was a province under British control. But Peking's New China News Agency, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo, reported that now "Red Guards and revolutionary masses in Wuhan decided to refit the clock and make it chime the first few bars of the famous chinese song 'The East is Red,' as a tribute to Chairman Mao Tse-tung."

New Year To Bring Some Major Headaches

Economy Moves Into 1967 Still Going Strong

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's economy, subjected this year to its first big taste of inflation since the current boom began in 1961, moves into the new year still going strong but with some major headaches.

The past year was one of higher prices, higher interest, supermarket boycotts, talk of tax increases, rapidly increasing defense spending brought on by escalation of the Vietnam war and a business investment boom that had more than a few economists jumpy.

Some foresee a slight slackening in economic activity during the second half of the year. "The entire year should be good but the first half will probably be better than the second," says one economist.

The over-all rise in economic activity, however, could be the second largest in history, second only to 1966 when inflation ate away a good part of the advances.

Government economists have used such terms as healthy, robust, steady and strong to describe the over-all economic growth expected to continue into 1967.

As 1966 moved into December, the biggest uncertainty of the year was still unresolved — whether President Johnson would request a tax increase to help meet the cost of the Vietnam war.

Some private economists who had urged a tax increase early in 1966 as a hedge against inflation said as the year drew to a close that a tax increase during 1967 might lead to recession.

For the housing industry, the slack already is there. But government experts predict an upturn no later than mid-1967. Despite this prediction, however, privately owned housing starts are expected to hit their lowest point in two decades.

Tight money—the scarcity of funds which is accompanied by high interest rates—was blamed for the slump in housing construction which saw new starts drop late in 1966 to their lowest level since the end of World War II.

The President's Council of Economic Advisers said a four per cent rate of real economic growth in 1967 would keep the nation within its physical capacity to produce and thus lead to greater price stability.

"Barring a sudden end to Vietnam hostilities, and given a reasonable degree of wisdom in the fiscal and monetary policy decisions still to be made, I am confident that the economy in 1967 can continue to provide high and growing production and incomes, steady jobs, and some reduction of existing distortions, both real and financial.

"Given as well a reasonably responsible behavior by labor and management in forthcoming wage and price decisions, we can also begin to move significantly toward the re-establishment of price stability."

Ackley said the cost of living can't be expected to return to the 1.25 per cent rate of annual increase in the 1960-65 period but it shouldn't repeat the 3.5 per cent rise of 1966.

A top private economist agrees that real economic growth next year should approximate four per cent but foresees a greater increase in prices during 1967 than this year. This view, said Carl Madden, chief economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, is linked to further acceleration of the Vietnam war.

Some government economists, although not challening the four per cent goal in real economic growth, have said a 4.5 per cent rate is needed to prevent a rise in unemployment and to prevent an erosion of job opportunities for Negroes.

An average 5.5 per cent rise in real growth the last 5½ years dropped the unemployment rate to less than four per cent of the total labor force during 1966.

Gross National Product—the value of all goods and services produced in the economy—reached $681.2 billion during 1965 and was expected to reach about $740 billion in 1966, a record rise of almost $60 billion.

The 1967 rise is estimated by the council at about $50 billion, the second largest in history, but with a lesser percentage of the advance eaten by inflation. About $30 billion of this was figured as real growth in output.

A good part of the output will result from government spending but as the year drew to a close it still was uncertain what the income and outgo figures for the current and the next fiscal year would be.

Some predictions of government spending for the fiscal year which ends next June 30 exceeded $125 billion, including $23 billion to fight the Vietnam war. This would be well above the $122.8-billion spending budget sent to Congress for fiscal 1967.

But revenues also have been rising faster than expected and even the Treasury Department —usually conservative in its estimates—said tax receipts could reach $118 billion this fiscal year, $7 billion higher than projected.

The figures for the new fiscal year beginning July 1 were anybody's guess. One projection — given Nov. 30 to newsmen covering President Johnson in Texas — went as high as $140 billion or more in spending.

A clearer picture won't emerge until January when President Johnson presents his budget to Congress for the fiscal year beginning July 1. And even that is subject to change later, depending especially on the course of the Vietnam war.

Officials in the other regulatory field approved the largest corporate merger in history during the year — the joining of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads — but it will be 1967 before any final decision is made.

Another major merger proposal that would have resulted in the longest rail system was rejected. This would have combined the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy into one huge system linking the Midwest with the Pacific.

The Federal Trade Commission, meanwhile, began an investigation of promotional gimmicks used by supermarkets to attract business.

This was prompted by supermarket boycotts which sprang up throughout the country as the cost of living continued to rise. Some of these sales gimmicks were being abandoned as the year came to a close.

In addition to higher consumer prices, 1966 also saw price increases in basic industries which the government called inflationary and wage settlements which shattered the administration's 3.2 per cent wage-price guidelines.

It also saw the administration fail to end the deficit in the nation's balance of payments — the difference between what Americans spend abroad and foreigners spend in this country. The imbalance was less than expected considering the impact of the Vietnam war.

The administration was successful last January in rolling back part of a steel price increase, but the story was different in August when the industry presented a united front in raising prices on strip and sheet steel by 2.2 per cent.

This climaxed a poor month on the wage-price field for the administration. It also saw airline machinists reject a contract settlement drawn up under White House auspices. The final settlement produced an estimated wage and fringe benefit increase of more than six per cent and included a cost of living escalator which the Council of Economic Advisers has called an engine of inflation.

The year began with the economy booming and many economists calling for a tax increase to dampen inflation.

The administration sought and got a restoration of excise taxes previously reduced, a new graduated withholding system for personal income taxes and a speedup in corporate tax payments. Social Security taxes also went up last Jan. 1 to help pay for medicare.

Armed with this program, administration leaders resisted any further efforts at fiscal restraint, contending it didn't want to hit the brakes too hard and send the economy into recession.

The Federal Reserve Board, meanwhile, tightened credit controls in an effort to dampen inflation and interest rates began their climb to the highest level in 40 years.

Even short-term Treasury bills — which normally command the lowest interest rate of any security — broke the six per cent mark in September.

As the year ended, interest rates on Treasury bills had declined sharply but were still high on other instruments, especially mortgages.

With the business investment boom still booming as fall approached, the President asked Congress to suspend the seven per cent investment tax credit to cool things off. Congress approved the plan in October.

Another new law provided for ceilings on the amount of interest which could be paid on deposits by banks and savings and loan associations.

By November, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler proclaimed the administration programs a success and said the economy had been cooled without a recessionary dip.

But the big imponderable still was the Vietnam war, and on that rested the economic decisions that will ultimately shape the economy for 1967.

Legibility Biggest Problem In Contests

CHICAGO (AP) — Being disqualified in sweepstakes contests requiring the sending of a label, box-top or brand name to a headquarters is the least of a contestant's worries.

Walter Barry, an advertising director, says the biggest problem is legibility. Names and addresses must be printed or written clearly.

"Out of 1,500 winners of a $80,000 prize contest, there will be a few disqualifications simply because people are careless and don't follow the simple rules," Barry said.
